

PRESIDENT WILL TALK CAMPAIGN STRATEGY WITH HALL TOMORROWG.O.P. Chairman to Go to Farm—Eisenhower Never Intended to Quit Race, Hagerty
Indicates.GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 11 (AP)—President Eisenhower, once again intent on running for a second term, will talk campaign strategy tomorrow with Republican national chairman Leonard W. Hall.Hall will come up from Washington tomorrow morning for the conference at the Eisenhower farm home.The arrangements for the G.O.P. chairman to consult with the President—their first get-together since Mr. Eisenhower's intestinal operation June 9—followed by a day of indefinite word that the President still plans to try for four more years in the White House.Hall is to hold a press conference after seeing the President.Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty declined to discuss Republican campaign plans, or even to say specifically whether Hall and Mr. Eisenhower would go into them extensively. But he said he was not forecasting their making some campaign plans tomorrow.Today, the President put in an hour and 45 minutes on official business with White House staff members. He signed 35 bills, allocated some emergency funds to Ohio, asked Congress for the money to build an animal disease laboratory at Ames, Iowa, and got in some initial looks on the budget for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1957.Message to Greece.
In addition, the President sent a message to King Paul of Greece saying: "I am admired to learn that Greece has just suffered an earthquake disaster and I wish to convey the heartfelt sympathy of the American people to you and to the people of the islands."In declining to say anything about Republican campaign tactics, Hagerty said neither he nor Hall had any intention of providing a blueprint in July or August of what they intend to do in September and October."We have quite a few plans," he said, "but I am not going to get into them until we get into the campaign."Reminded that Senator William F. Knowland of California, had quoted Mr. Eisenhower yesterday as saying the President planned a "vigorous and active campaign," Hagerty would not say whether there had been any change in plans to hold down on whistle stop tours and concentrate on radio, television and news coverage.As for whether Mr. Eisenhower might enter the political arena after he and other Republican legislative leaders had met with Mr. Eisenhower.But Hagerty said later he believed it had been Mr. Eisenhower's intention all along to stay in the race.Asked whether there was "a period of rethinking and decision and reconsideration" in the light of the operation June 9, from which he has not fully recovered, Hagerty told newsmen:
"No, I don't think there was."
After the operation, "a reporter pressed, 'there was never

DULLES DECLARES
NIXON STATES U.S.
VIEWS VERY WELLBut He Doesn't Indorse Such Statements as Red Aid Being 'Rope
Around Neck.'By GEORGE H. HALL
A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.WASHINGTON, July 11—
Secretary of State John Foster Dulles said today Vice President Richard M. Nixon had in general expounded the position of the United States very effectively on his Asian trip.The Secretary, at a press conference wired for television for the second time in recent weeks, did not indorse specifically, however, some of the statements Nixon was reported to have made.Nixon was reported to have said at the Karachi (Pakistan) airport on Monday that countries that accepted economic or military aid from the Soviet Union invited "a rope around the neck," as the purpose of the Communists was to make satellites of countries taking aid.Nixon Transcript Read.
Asked about this, Dulles said his understanding was that Nixon had quoted someone else in this connection. A reporter read a quotation from a State Department transcript supporting newspaper reports of Nixon's remarks, and Dulles said he, too, had read the transcript and received a different impression.Nixon also reportedly said at Karachi that the United States would not automatically reject the idea of giving American assistance to countries that were receiving Soviet aid. Asked about this, Dulles said he did not know just what the Vice President had said, but that in general he was in accord with Nixon's exposition of United States policies.Continuing in reply to questions, the Secretary said there was almost a certain risk to a country that accepts Communist aid. This, he went on, follows from the fact that the Soviet Union, itself impoverished, must have an exceedingly strong motive to induce it to divert economic advantages that might go to its own people.He would not say, Dulles asserted, that in every case a country risks a rope around the neck when it accepts Russian assistance but that, the motives being known, an offer of such assistance was cause for warning and should be watched carefully.Dulles was asked whether he considered neutralism in world affairs immoral. In a fourth question, he said he did not know.

'FINE NEWS,' SAYS
MOSCOW'S MALIKLONDON, July 11 (AP)—Soviet Ambassador Jacob Malik is an
"ike for President" booster.
"Have you heard the news?"
asked Russia's envoy to Britain as he swept into a party last night given by Harry Hohler, British foreign office official.Heads turned his way, awaiting some new pronouncement from the Kremlin."Senator Knowland," said Malik, "has just announced that he is going to be a candidate.
This is fine news."Another guest laughingly commented it was strange hearing the Soviet ambassador bearing news about the American presidency."I'm for Eisenhower," said Malik. "The people of Europe know him. They like him and trust him. We can do business with President Eisenhower."PLAN FOR TWO U.S.
BUILDINGS HERE;
COST $20,000,000WASHINGTON, July 11—A plan for construction of two new federal buildings in St.
Louis, at a total cost of $20-000,000 was submitted to the Bureau of the Budget today by the General Services Administration.Under the proposal forwarded by GSA Administrator Franklin G. Floete, a new federal office building would be built in the downtown area and a new federal center housing civilian government records would be constructed in a suburban location.Budget Bureau approval would be required for the projects, which would be built under the lease-purchase arrangement recently passed by Congress. Private contractors would construct the buildings, then lease them to the Government for a period not to exceed 25 years, with the Government eventually assuming title.PILOT STRICKEN, PASSENGER

A passenger who had taken a few flying lessons took the controls and landed a light plane yesterday after the pilot suffered a fatal heart attack.George Burrell, who hired the plane to inspect power lines for a rural electric co-operative, took control of the craft when he saw the pilot, Harold Davidson, was ill.He headed the plane toward the Yankton airport and landed on the longest runway without mishap. Davidson, operator of the airport, was dead on arrival at a hospital here.St. Louis Woman Says It Would Be 'Terrible to Root Them Up Again.'Mr. and Mrs. John C. Mc-Guire, 3855 McDonald avenue, said today they were determined to keep Alice, Monica and Claudine, three French girls they adopted March 6, despite announced efforts by the girls' mother to get them back.
The girls are 5, 6 and 7 years old."It would be terrible to root them up again," Mrs. McGuire said. "We won't let that happen.
That's the only way."Since arrival of the girls in the United States May 25, they have been the subject of widespread publicity in France depicting the McGuires as particularly well-to-do.The family has only a modest income, however, McGuire is a machinist's helper for the Terminal Railroad Co. His wife, a department store demonstrator, quit her job to resume her role as mother.The present husband of the girls' mother, an Algerian named Louari Chackel, told French reporters yesterday he had written a letter about the girls to President Rene Coty of France.His claim to the girls, Chackel said, is based on his recognition of them a month before their adoption. At that time, however, no evidence of such recognition was found by court investigators. The Mc-Guire were told. A four-month search was made.Son Killed 5 Years Ago.
The McGuire's only child,
Army Sgt. John C. McGuire Jr., was killed in an automobile five years ago, near Deadwood, S.D.
The report of his death was accepted by the court, and the adoption was arranged by his commanding officer, now in France, to try to fill the gap. The McGuire have been married 32 years.The girls' mother was deprived of her maternal rights by a court in Nancy, France, in 1952.A court in Toul ruled last March that the girls' mother's whereabouts were unknown, reaffirmed her loss of maternal rights and held that the girls would have better care with their American adoptive family.The mother, born Gisèle Cheneau, had taken no interest in the girls in the intervening years, the court found. They were then cared for in a social welfare center in Nancy because a social worker had found they had no fit home.All three little girls have maintained the hearty appetites that amazed and delighted Mrs.
McGuire when she started to cook for them last May in the nest kitchen of the McGuire's small four-room cottage. All are gaining weight.Lapse Into French.
They are rapidly learning English, but lapse into French when they become emphatic.
At a recent barbecue at a friend's home, a French-speaking St. Louisan asked her whether they loved their new parents.Each shouted "Oui!" in quick succession."Would you like to go back to France?" they were asked.
"Non!"
"Non!"
"Non!"
Mrs. McGuire, who does not read French, has received six or seven letters in French in the last few weeks, she said.
Feeling the letters pertained to the girls but not recognizing some of the senders' names, she has forwarded them all to their son's former commanding officer, Everett K. Spees, who has taken care of all details of the adoption in France.Today, as Mrs. McGuire answered telephone calls from French newspapers about her reaction to the turn of events, she opened an official gift package from the city of Nancy.
It contained a crimson scarf embroidered with the city's coat of arms.STRATTON ASKS HODGE TO QUIT
RACE, ORDERS BOND DOUBLEDFBI Joins Inquiry Into 'Questionable' Checks
— Governor Threatens to Declare Office Vacant.SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 11 (UP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today entered a spreading investigation of $500-000 worth of "questionable" state checks alleged issued by the office of State Auditor Orville E. Hodge of Granite City.
Gov. William G. Stratton confirmed today that he has asked Hodge to withdraw as a candidate for re-election.Stratton today ordered Hodge to double his surety bond to $100,000 and said "public and private confidence" in Hodge "no longer exist."Stratton said his statement could be interpreted to mean that he has asked Hodge to remove himself from the Republican ticket as a candidate for re-election.The Governor said he had written Hodge a letter pointing out that state law gives him discretionary power to demand an increase in the auditor's bond. Stratton said he was requiring Hodge to increase his present bond of $50,000 to the legal maximum of $100,000.If Hodge does not supply the bond within 20 days, Stratton said, the Governor has discretionary authority to declare the office vacant and appoint a new auditor.Asked if he would declare the office vacant if Hodge did not supply the bond, Stratton said,
"I think that's pretty obvious,
yes."Possible Independent Candidate.
Stratton was reported to have told Hodge last night that if Hodge would not drop out, then the party organization will sponsor an independent candidate against him in the November election.The Chicago Daily News touched off the inquiry with a series of stories on payrolls and other financial aspects of the auditor's office.State, county and federal authorities opened investigation a week ago when the Daily News told of 15 state checks totaling $180,000 which, it said, were issued by Hodge's office last fall.15 Named as Payees.
Of the 15 individuals and firms named as payees, the newspaper said, seven reported they never got the money. Since then, other similar checks have been uncovered.Some of the checks were cashied at a Chicago bank, the Southmoor Bank & Trust Co.
The bank's lawyer reported that some of the money was paid to a Hodge aide, United States District Attorney Robert Ticken announced at Chicago today that he was asking the FBI to investigate this phase of the case.Stratton asked the Illinois Budgetary Commission to look into the matter, and Sangamon County State's Attorney George
P. Couttrakon will lead a grand jury investigation opening here next week.Couttrakon said Vernon M.
Welsh, attorney for the South-moor Bank & Trust Co., Chicago, had stated Epping cashed a number of state checks and

SENATE HEARING ON INTERIOR POST TURNS INTO ROW ON PARTY TACTICS

Murray, at Meeting on D'Ewart, Charges Campaign 'Smear'—President's Health Also a Topic.

By EDWARD F. WOODS A Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, July 11—A Senate committee hearing on the controversial nomination of Wesley A. D'Ewart, Montana Republican, as Assistant Secretary of the Interior for Public Land Management erupted today into a sharp clash between Republicans and Democrats on campaign tactics.

D'Ewart, whose nomination was widely opposed by conservation groups, appeared before the Senate Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs armed with a long statement setting forth his purported qualifications for the position but long before Senators started questioning him on his background there were charges of "smear" tactics exchanged by both sides and President Eisenhower's health was even dragged in.

Senator James E. Murray (Dem.), Montana, touched the rumors off with some remarks about the campaign waged against him in 1954 when he was running against D'Ewart, the Republican candidate, then a member of the House of Representatives.

Assaults Propaganda. Murray protested that Montana Republicans "smeared" him through false and vicious propaganda attempting to brand him as a "left" or "Communist sympathizer" and one who was soft on Communism. Murray said that neither D'Ewart nor the official Republican senatorial campaign organization repudiated these tactics.

He said that a recent statement by the staff of the Republican Senatorial Campaign Committee charged that the Communists want the Democrats to win this fall's elections and that this was evidence that another "smear" campaign against the Democrats is in the offing.

How, Senator Murray wanted to know, did D'Ewart feel about such campaign tactics and would he repudiate them. Despite considerable prodding by Democrats, D'Ewart declined to use the word "repudiate," but he did say that he had nothing to do with the "Communism" charges made against Murray and "would not approve" of any plans to conduct a campaign against the Democrats on that ground this year.

"I disavow that sort of thing," D'Ewart said.

Senator Thomas Kuchel (Rep.), California, described the "propaganda" against Murray in the 1954 campaign as "ridiculous."

"It is a miserable thing to do," Kuchel said. "One of the lows of this Congress was when one of my Republican colleagues, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin, vilified Chief Justice Earl Warren by accusing him of pro-Communist activities."

Charges Democratic Charges. "But there are more ways of damaging reputations than accusations of Communism. One of them is the way the Democrats charge Republicans with being the tools of special interests."

He noted that there had been attempts in the Wyoming campaign to link Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney, a Democratic member of the committee with Communism.

"I regret what happened in Montana and Wyoming," Kuchel said. "But this business of character assassination is not partisan or sectional in character. We're all going to be subject to smears this year."

"There's a difference between an attack on a candidate by an individual and one by an official Republican committee," O'Mahoney observed.

Kuchel replied that he for one repudiated the Senate Policy Committee staff statement linking the Democrats and Communism.

The President's health was brought into the discussion when Kuchel accused Senator Richard Neuberger (Dem.), Oregon, of doing a "diservice" to the cause of clean campaigns by asserting that "panicky" Republicans were going to "prop up" the President with drugs, if necessary to get him through the fall campaign.

Neuberger heatedly denied having made such a statement but went on to disclose that he had written former Surgeon General Leonard A. Scheele about the nature of a blood anti-coagulant, dicumarol, which, he said, the press had reported as being administered to the President.

Neuberger said he received a reply from Scheele dated June 25, 1956, in which the surgeon general and members of the United States Public Health

Survivors Ordered to Remain on Thera As New Quakes Drive Them Into Open

Huge Sections of Coastal Cliffs Tossed Into Sea by Tremors—Other Islands Feel Shocks and Endure Small Tidal Wave.

ATHENS, July 11 (UP)—The Greek government ordered survivors of the Thera earthquakes to remain on the island in the Aegean sea today despite new tremors that sent residents fleeing into the fields.

One eyewitness of the disaster, which killed or injured more than 150 people and destroyed half the homes on the 36-square-mile island, said the picturesque island appears to have been "destroyed forever."

"The capital (Thera) is a 90 per cent loss," said Christos Svolopoulos, special correspondent to a Greek newspaper. "Most houses and villages perched high in the mountains are ready to crumble into the sea."

More than 50 persons were killed and nearly 100 injured on Thera Monday when an earthquake opened volcanic craters and pushed the sea into a destructive, 13-foot tidal wave.

"The tragedy continues" as bodies are being continually dragged from the ruins," the correspondent reported.

U.S. Flyer's Account. Randolph Myers, United States pilot with the Eighteenth Atlantic Squadron, said a flight over Thera was a shocking experience.

"Villagers are in the fields while most of the houses appear to be destroyed," he said. "It looks as if the island was destroyed by a blow from a huge

Service staff indicated that the medicine is highly controversial. He placed the 10-page letter in the hearing record.

In one part of the letter Scheele said that "its (dicumarol) use and duration of treatment are matters to be determined by the physician and in relation to the individual patient."

Scheele said further that the use of the medicine "is considered to be safe when properly administered under controlled conditions to properly selected patients by or under direction of a physician trained in its use."

Scheele added that "several disadvantages" attend use of the medicine and that "careful planning of the dosages is necessary."

Neuberger insisted that his remarks about the President's health and his letter to Scheele were prompted solely by genuine concern over the President's well being.

Kuchel replied that regardless of Neuberger's intentions his remarks were "properly interpreted" as meaning that "drugs could be used to sustain a dangerously sick man."

Neuberger said he had sent a copy of Scheele's letter to the President along with his best wishes for the President's good health.

LANGUAGE IN AEC BILL LIKENED TO ORDER TO VALET

Strauss Objects to Being 'Directed'—'We Hate to Be Flogged as Schoolboys.'

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission was disclosed today as feeling one provision in an atomic power reactor bill amounts to flogging AEC members "as tardy schoolboys."

The Senate—House Atomic Energy Committee made public hitherto secret testimony of Strauss and his fellow commissioners on the bill which the committee has approved for action in both branches of Congress.

It calls for a $400,000,000 program designed to accelerate progress in building an atomic power industry. Included would be large-scale power reactors at AEC plants as well as smaller research reactors with promising new types of designs.

The transcript of the testimony disclosed many arguments between committee members, led by Chairman Clinton P. Anderson (Dem.), New Mexico, and the AEC members.

Objects to 'Directed.' Strauss and some of his colleagues objected to the language in the bill which says the commission is "authorized and directed" to build the large-scale reactors.

Objecting specifically to the word "directed," Strauss said he felt the agency already was working hard to carry out an atomic reactor program.

"I think that the majority of the commission would very much deplore language in a bill which directed us to do something that we feel that we are doing," he said. "We hate to be flogged as schoolboys for not having done a better job."

FBI JOINS HUNT FOR KIDNAPER OF NEW YORK BABY

Lindbergh Law Invoked—Mother Follows Up More False Leads From Cranks.

WESTBURY, N.Y., July 11 (UP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation has "actively entered" the hunt for the kidnaper of 5-week-old Peter Weinberger.

The FBI officially entered the case under the Lindbergh Law which presumes—after seven days have elapsed since a kidnapping—that the abductor has crossed a state line, which makes it an interstate case and gives the Federal Government jurisdiction.

An announcement in Washington by the FBI said: "The FBI has now actively entered the investigation of the kidnapping of Peter Weinberger. Its full resources have been made available with the view of affecting a solution to the case."

The FBI had been in constant touch with the family on an unofficial basis since the child was abducted.

The FBI agents were expected to organize a crackdown on crank telephone calls and hoaxes which have interfered with the investigation and brought forth heartbreak to the infant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Weinberger.

Fruitless Search. Mrs. Betty Weinberger was lured yesterday to two more fake kidnappers. Earlier in the day, a hoax telephone call from a fast-talking woman sent police on another fruitless search for the missing baby in a Long Island convent.

The hoax telephone calls were disclosed by the Rev. Thomas Code, Roman Catholic pastor who has offered to serve as an intermediary between the kidnaper and the family.

The callers, one a man and the other a woman, told the Weinbergers they were not interested in the $5000 call but had information about the kidnapping. Neither appeared at the appointed rendezvous times with Mrs. Weinberger.

"These people are behaving awfully who call the Weinbergers with these fake advances," the priest said.

Convent Searched. The wild-goose chase occurred when a woman telephoned news editor Jack Slocum of the Columbia Broadcasting System, speaking calmly and precisely, the woman told Slocum that Peter would be left at a convent at isolated Look-out Point, a Long Island beach resort.

Police searched the sanctuary, adjoining convent and other buildings without finding a trace of the missing infant.

Police theorized today the ransom note may itself have been a hoax to cover a kidnaper who wanted the child, not the money.

Mrs. Weinberger faced another ordeal yesterday when she appeared at a felony court in Queens county for the arraignment of two men who scale reactors.

Objecting specifically to the word "directed," Strauss said he felt the agency already was working hard to carry out an atomic reactor program.

"I think that the majority of the commission would very much deplore language in a bill which directed us to do something that we feel that we are doing," he said. "We hate to be flogged as schoolboys for not having done a better job."

At another point, Strauss said "my feeling about it is, and I realize it is an individual opinion, that that is the kind of an expression you use to your valet."

Soviet Parliament Urges World To Adopt Russian Arms Cut Plan

Both Houses Approve Moscow Appeal—Also OK Japanese Plea for End to Atom Tests.

MOSCOW, July 11 (AP)—The two houses of the Supreme Soviet (parliament) met today and placed their unanimous approval on a Moscow appeal to world parliaments to back Soviet disarmament proposals.

The item, along with support for the Japanese parliament's call for an end to nuclear weapons tests, dominated a five-point agenda adopted by the Council of the Union and the Council of Nationalities.

Premier Bulganin, head of the government, and most top-ranking members of the government were on hand in the great Kremlin palace for the sessions. Communist party chief Nikita S. Khrushchev was not present at either meeting, although he is a deputy in the council of the union.

However, when the two houses of the Supreme Soviet met jointly later in the day, Khrushchev was present, beaming down from the presidium.

As the joint session opened, the 1300 deputies cheered Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi and Empress Soraya of Iran, who entered the white and gold meeting room of the Kremlin palace to witness the proceedings. The Shah is a guest in the Soviet Union. Immediately behind them came the Premier of Communist-ruled North Korea, Kim Il Sung.

The earlier separate sessions of the two houses were brief.

Bulganin Attends. Only Klement Voroshilov, chairman of the Supreme Soviet's presidium and technical president of the Soviet Union, and Premier Bulganin attended the session of the upper house—the Council of Nationalities. Present at the lower house meetings were Bulganin, Voroshilov, Defense Minister Georgi K. Zhukov, Vice Premiers Georgi Malenkov and V. M. Molotov, and other top Government officials.

The council of the union met for seven hours in a hall Sunday.

Robert F. Gleibler, 26 years old, of Jackson Heights, Long Island, and Gordon T. Rowell, 24, of Sunnyside, Long Island, were held without bail for hearings Monday.

Disqualifying himself, Magistrate James E. Lo Piccolo called the two "meanest persons" he had seen in five years on the bench and said he "could show no sympathy, no mercy or anything else."

Sitting close to the haggard Mrs. Weinberger were Mrs. Barbara Gleibler, carrying her fourth child, and Mrs. Adrianna Rowell, wives of the prisoners.

"That poor woman, I feel so sorry for her," Mrs. Gleibler said between sobs.

When she left the court, Mrs. Weinberger was asked if she still had hopes her child would be returned to her.

A penciled note was left beside Peter's baby carriage demanding $2000 for his return. A telephone call to the family later demanded $5000 but police questioned it as another possible hoax.

NIXON REAFFIRMS HIS INTENTION TO RUN AGAIN

Vice President Returns to Washington From Round-the-World Tour.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Vice President Nixon returned today and reaffirmed his intention to try for a second term nomination.

He landed at National Airport aboard a special military plane shortly after Senator Kefauver (Dem.), Tennessee, had denounced him to the Senate for getting into a row with India's Prime Minister Nehru in the course of the trip.

In a news conference in Pakistan Nixon said he had Nehru in mind when he said earlier that acceptance of Communist assistance is dangerous and "inconsistent with freedom."

The Indian leader reacted sharply.

In an arrival statement Nixon had no comment on that matter but stuck to a report of friendly relations he found overseas, plus politics.

Noting what he termed President Eisenhower's decision "to stand for re-election," Nixon said that during his visit to the Philippines, Formosa, Viet Nam, Thailand, Pakistan and Turkey he found "tremendous respect and affection for the President of the United States."

At this point, he said he anticipated that many reporters wanted to know "what my plans will be." He then said that in April he had indicated he would be happy to abide by the decision of the President and the national convention.

Since the President has indicated his decision to stand for re-election, "I can say the announcement I made in April has not changed."

Atomic Reactor for Israel. JERUSALEM, Israel Sector, July 11 (AP)—Israel will soon begin construction of an experimental atomic reactor, Prof. Ernst David Bergmann, chairman of a government atomic energy committee, said yesterday.

When she left the court, Mrs. Weinberger was asked if she still had hopes her child would be returned to her.

"Do I have to answer that?" she asked. Then, after a pause, she said, "Of course I have hopes."

G. H. FLETCHER ELECTED SCHOOL BUILDING CHIEF, DEFEATS RHODES

Engineer Selected in 7-to-5 Vote as 'Old Guard' and 'Blue Ribbon' Factions Split on Issue.

George H. Fletcher began his duties as school building commissioner today after V. Harry Rhodes was defeated for reappointment to the job by the Board of Education at a meeting last night.

Fletcher, an engineer, was elected to the $15,000-a-year post by a 7 to 5 vote. Both the "old guard" majority and "blue ribbon" minority split on the issue. "Old Guard" members have supported Rhodes in the past.

Fletcher was given the oath of office by Secretary-Treasurer Mervyn E. Withaupt after posting a $20,000 bond as required by state law. He said he has "no changes in mind at this time; first I have to get my feet on the ground and familiarize myself with the department."

Ehrhardt Names Rhodes. Rhodes was nominated for a third four-year term last night by Oscar A. Ehrhardt, who described him as an "outstanding commissioner not without the fact that he has been the subject of some controversy" in the past. However, four members of the "old guard" majority voted for Rhodes.

Fletcher, who lives at 3504 Evergreen lane, Lemay, because "he has plenty of ability," Donnelly, explaining his vote, declared that "Fletcher's background shows he has the kind of experience needed in this job." Donnelly added that he did not think the four "old guard" members who supported Rhodes did so as a rebuff to Rhodes but simply because they preferred Fletcher's qualifications.

Two of the "blue ribbon" members, Mrs. Edward M. Harrington and Dr. Walter A. Young, voted for Rhodes. Mrs. Harrington said in the past year she has been observing the building department "constantly" and decided that Rhodes has done a good job and "kept abreast of the times." Board President James F. Morrell, Lee Bruns and Ehrhardt also cast the other votes for Rhodes.

As head of the building department, Rhodes has been directing the work of about 1000 employees. The department's annual budget is about $5,000,000. After the meeting, some employees of the building department who had attended the session crowded around Rhodes, shaking his hand, but he showed no emotion. He refused to comment on his defeat or discuss his plans for the future.

In obtaining his first appointment as building commissioner in 1948 and his re-appointment in 1952, Rhodes has faced substantial opposition. Operations of his department were criticized in the 1954 survey of non-teaching functions by A. T. Kearney & Co., a Chicago business consultant firm. He attacked the validity of the report, describing it as a "rocking chair opinion."

Opposed by Committee. In 1952 a committee of the school board recommended that he not be re-appointed as a result of his "poor judgment" in using school employees in construction of his home in St. Louis county. However, the board rejected the committee recommendation by a 7-to-4 vote. Recently Rhodes, 63 years old, has been criticized by some board members for hiring more employees than were called for in his budget and then requesting additional money with which to pay them. Some school jobs he has proposed to undertake with his own workmen have been larger than permitted by state law, board members have charged.

In other action, the board voted, 6-to-4, to give a 5 per cent pay increase to about 1000 non-teaching employees. The increase would cost about $200,000 a year and was not included in the 1956-57 budget of $30,594,754. The money will have to be appropriated later in the year.

Points to City's Scale. Mrs. Harrington opposed the pay increase, which was recommended by the board's executive officers after a study. She cited statistics she gathered to show that the board's present pay scale already exceeds salaries paid city employees in comparable work. The city recently increased its employees' salaries 5 per cent.

Auditor Thor W. Bruce said the increase is justified and cited figures he compiled to show the board is not paying salaries equal to the city for comparable work. In setting the school tax rate, Mrs. Harrington declared, the tax campaign committee asked all departments for 1956-57 budget estimates, which were to include the cost of salaries. An increase for non-teaching employees was not included in these estimates given the committee, she pointed out, declaring that such an increase should have been foreseen by department heads.

Alone's Plea Fails. An effort by Antoine to require a two-thirds favorable vote of board members on the ground the proposal was in effect an appropriation was unsuccessful. It was pointed out that the proposal, instead of appropriating funds, simply authorizes the board's executive officers to request the needed money later in the year. The increase is retroactive to July 1.

Those voting against the proposal were Mrs. Harrington, Antoine, Christel and Schaffly. Bruns, Donnelly, Dyer, Mrs. Friede, Dr. McCaffery and Morrell voted for the increase. Dr. Young and Ehrhardt did not vote. Dr. Young had been excused from the meeting some time earlier and Ehrhardt stepped outside just before the balloting began, returning to his place when the question was settled.

The board unanimously approved the re-appointment of Philip J. Huey as superintendent of instruction. He has held that post since 1942, being re-appointed three times. His salary now is $20,000 a year.

LASHLY GIVES GRAND JURORS SYMINGTON CAMPAIGN DATA

Records of 1952 election campaign contributions and expenditures for United States Senator Stuart Symington were turned over to a federal grand jury here today by Jacob M. Lashly, attorney who was chairman of the St. Louis Citizens for Symington Committee at the time.

The records dealt with donations made to the committee and the committee's expenditures on behalf of Symington. Lashly was the only witness heard by the grand jury, which recessed until 10 a.m. next Monday.

The grand jury, which has been reviewing 1952 election expenditures, particularly in the senatorial contest, heard a total of four witnesses this week.

DOG ON TRACKS IN NO BIG HURRY, DELAYS TRAIN

The Illinois Terminal Railroad's Granite City commuter train rolled into St. Louis five minutes late yesterday morning, and the motorman had an excuse that would appeal to any dog lover.

What held up the one-car train and its passengers was a small dog that turned up on the railway's elevated tracks at Branch street. The motorman slowed his train and inched along behind the animal for quite a distance.

The dog took its own sweet time despite eloquent pleas for haste from trainmen. After the dog had paced the train for several blocks, both reached a point where the conductors could alight.

With the dog safely out of the way, presumably no sadder and no wiser, the train forged ahead at normal speed. Train officials did not know how the animal got on the track, but said such dog-induced delays had happened before.

NEW RECORD IN DELINQUENT TAXES PAID STATE THIS YEAR

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11—Delinquent state taxes collected from Missourians in the first six months of this year totaled $195,342, a new high for a half-century, according to the Attorney General's department reported today. The principal delinquencies involve state sales, income and corporation franchise taxes. The legal department now has pending suits to collect $750,000 in state motor vehicle taxes from truck lines using Missouri highways but incorporated in other states, and to establish state ownership of about $1,000,000 in unclaimed fire insurance premiums involved in the fire insurance rate compromise litigation in the 1930s.

FIRE DESTROYS BUILDING, ROUTS NINE FAMILIES

Adjoining Homes Cleared as East Side Warehouse Burns — Damage $200,000.

Fire destroyed the warehouse and office building of the Schmidt Roofing & Siding Co., Eleventh street and Missouri avenue, East St. Louis, today, and nine families were forced from their homes. A general alarm was sounded.

At the height of the blaze, flames leaped 200 feet into the air. Heavy clouds of gray smoke from burning asphalt and pitch poured out of the building and could be seen from downtown St. Louis.

The fire was discovered by Police Sgt. Raymond Hill in a routine patrol of the area. He saw smoke coming from the front of the two-story brick building at 3:45 a.m. and turned in the first alarm.

Soon after firemen arrived, the family of Mrs. Rosie Gahr, 1139 Missouri, directly east of the burning building, was assisted from their home by firemen and neighbors. Members of the family and neighbors then removed most of the furniture and the Gahr family possessions.

Fire Chief Gerald M. Fallon said he feared the east wall of the burning building might fall on the Gahr home. On the west, two four-family flats at 1123-25 and 1127-29 Missouri were emptied at the direction of firemen. Occupants of these buildings also removed most of their furniture and placed it in the street.

Firemen directed streams of water on the two flats and Mrs. Gahr's home to keep sparks from igniting them. A portion of the front wall of the Schmidt building collapsed and the roof was destroyed. Fireman said a carload of pitch and another of asphalt had been unloaded and stored in the building recently, and these helped spread the flames. Four trucks in the place were destroyed.

Fallon estimated damage at $200,000. Smoke and flames attracted a large crowd of spectators, some of whom helped occupants of the residences move their furniture. Police formed firelines and rerouted traffic in Ninth, Eleventh and Thirteenth streets and in Missouri avenue.

PICKETS LEAVE, 10 GARMENT FIRMS RESUME PRODUCTION

Production was resumed at 10 garment manufacturing firms at 808 Washington avenue today after withdrawal of pickets by local 516 of the Shipping Clerks Union, an affiliate of the AFL-CIO International Ladies Garment Workers Union.

Members of the parent union had curtailed production when they declined to cross the picket line, established last Monday in an attempt by the clerks to obtain collective bargaining recognition.

Pickets were withdrawn after management and the garment workers union agreed that their differences, including those involving the shipping clerks, would be discussed after a 30-day "cooling off" period. The garment production workers hold a contract with the industry through the Associated Garment Industries. The shipping clerks are not a part of the agreement.

Freshman Mathematics Course At Washington U. to Be on TV

KETC Telecasts to Supplant Classroom Lectures—Teachers to Help Students With Study Problems.

All lectures in the basic freshman mathematics course at Washington University this fall will be given on educational television station KETC. Instead of in classrooms, it was announced today. This is the first time a basic college course will be offered here only on television.

From 400 to 500 freshmen are expected to enroll for the one-semester five-credit course in college algebra and trigonometry. Five 45-minute lectures will be telecast weekly. Students will have daily textbook assignments and members of the mathematics department will be available regularly to answer questions for individual students.

Prof. Ross Middlemiss, one of three lecturers for the course, said kinescoping lectures will give department members twice as much time to help students with their individual study problems.

To Meet Rising Demand. "In this way we can hope to meet the rapidly rising demand for math training and cope with the problems brought about by the general rise in college enrollment," Middlemiss said. He taught a similar course on television last spring. Local business concerns sponsored it so that their employees could conveniently receive instruction that would help them get better jobs. "Results were encouraging," he said.

Prof. Holbrook MacNeille,

Prof. Margaret Elliott and Middlemiss, all of the mathematics department, are now kinescoping their fall lectures at KETC studios. Each lecture will be broadcast five times daily, twice on the station and three times on closed circuits for classroom sets.

Persons not regularly attending Washington University can watch the course, but will not receive college credit unless they register with the school and pay tuition for it.

Four Examinations. Four proctored examinations will be given. "These tests will tell us how well the students master material in the course," Middlemiss said. "Some may do well simply by doing the textbook assignments. Others may need to spend much time at the department help sessions, which will be given daily almost every hour on campus from 9 a.m. to 10 p.m.," Middlemiss said.

"Responsibility for watching the lectures will rest squarely with the student. He can watch each lecture twice a day or not at all, depending upon his own judgment of his needs. We hope the course will help our students learn to read scientific material by themselves."

Other schools in the area are being invited to use the lectures. Harris Teachers College has already arranged for its students to view the lectures and receive individual help from Harris instructors, the station said.

WOMAN IS FINED $1000 FOR CIVIL COURTS SHOOTING

Mrs. Alberta Parker, accused of firing six wild shots at an elevator operator in Civil Courts building yesterday, was fined $1000 today. Police Judge Robert G. Dowd found her guilty of individual peace disturbance and discharging firearms in the city.

He also recommended that she receive a mental examination. The elevator operator, Mrs. Augusta Burks, 4624 Ashland avenue, testified she knew Mrs. Parker, also known as Mrs. Collins, and that the woman had threatened her, quoting her as saying Mrs. Burks "had tried to strangle me." Mrs. Parker admitted firing at Mrs. Burks "to scare her."

Mrs. Parker, 62 years old, a Negro, was arrested at her home in the 4000 block of Evans avenue several hours after the shooting, which sent persons in the building scurrying for cover. When she ran from the building, Mrs. Parker said she threw the pistol into a sewer at Eleventh and Market streets. She had purchased the weapon at a pawn shop in East St. Louis, police said.

U.S. JURY INDICTS 3 MEN ON NARCOTICS CHARGES

Three men were charged with violating federal narcotics laws in indictments voted yesterday by the federal grand jury. Richard Jackson, 5600 block of Page boulevard, was charged in two counts with concealing seven ounces of heroin and with causing it to be transported from New York to St. Louis. Jackson is a Negro.

Murris J. Pitmon and Larry Wares, both of Chicago, were charged with transporting, selling and concealing quantities of the drug. Pitmon allegedly sold one ounce of heroin here last March 9 for $227. Wares is charged with selling 117 grains here for $250. Both are Negroes.

SENTENCED TO YEAR AS DRUNKEN DRIVER

Forest L. Peak Drove Car in Which Rider Was Fatally Hurt.

Forest L. Peak, a barber, 2622 Park avenue, was sentenced to a year in the Workhouse today by Police Judge Robert G. Dowd who found him guilty of driving when intoxicated.

Peak, 55 years old, was the driver of an automobile which struck a 10-inch metal pole at the end of the Grand boulevard viaduct near Papin street last May 16, fatally injuring a passenger in the car, Roy Young, a bartender, 2624 Park.

Young, 48, was thrown against the windshield. He collapsed and died at City Hospital a few hours after he was admitted for treatment of head injuries, at first not believed to be serious.

At the time of his arrest Peak told police he and Young had been drinking earlier in the evening. Police testified today that in their opinion Peak was drunk. He appealed the conviction.

30 M.P.H. LIMIT EXTENDED ON CLAYTON, HANLEY ROADS

A new 30-mile-an-hour speed limit was voted for parts of Clayton and Hanley roads last night by the Clayton board of aldermen. The old speed limit was 20 miles an hour.

All of Clayton road within the city limits of Clayton will now have the 30-mile-an-hour limit. Previously the 20-mile limit was in effect from the eastern city limits to Crestwood drive.

On Hanley, the 20-mile limit between Wydown boulevard and Maryland avenue—a section of the road which was recently widened—was increased to 30 miles an hour. The 20-mile limit, however, remains on Hanley between Wydown and Clayton road, pending completion of a widening project there.

POLITICAL LEADERS TO SPEAK AT 'VOTER-CADE' MEETING

Political party principles will be discussed in the Y.M.C.A. "voter-cade" program at 7:30 tonight at the Downtown Y.M.C.A., 1528 Locust street.

Speakers will include Jack Finnegan, president of the Associated Young Democratic Club, and Ernest Potts, treasurer of the Young Republican Club.

A poll will be conducted to ascertain how those present feel about this year's election issues. Results will be compared with those of similar polls in other sections of the country.

JET AIRLINER SETS RECORD FOR SEATTLE TO LOS ANGELES

SEATTLE, July 10 (AP)—Boeing's 707 prototype jet airliner made a round-trip of nearly 2000 miles from Seattle to Los Angeles in 3 hours and 56 minutes yesterday. The Boeing Airplane Co. said the swept-wing, four-engine jet made the flight down in one hour and 59 minutes, and returned in one hour and 57 minutes. The flights were the speediest ever made by a commercial-type plane on the 959-mile route between the two cities.

SCHOENBECK URGES ACTION ON VOTE LAW

Failure to Pass 'Honest Elections' Bill Assailed by Senate Candidate.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11.—Failure of the Democratic-controlled Senate to pass the "honest elections" law at this session of Congress was sharply criticized by Albert E. Schoenbeck of St. Louis, candidate for Republican nomination for United States Senator, in a talk before a G.O.P. meeting here last night.
He declared the Democratic Senate leadership should make an effort to pass the law before adjournment, so it can add at least one good bill to "their party record so far."
Schoenbeck said the drive for a strong elections law was prompted by the disclosure by Senator Francis Case (Rep., South Dakota) that he was offered a $2500 campaign contribution by a lobbyist backing passage of the natural gas bill, which was subsequently vetoed by President Eisenhower.

Signed By 85 Senators.
Last March, 85 of the 96 Senators signed a bill co-sponsored by Senators Lyndon Johnson of Texas and William F. Knowland of California, the Democratic and Republican Senate leaders. The bill was a watered-down version of a much stronger honest election bill sponsored by Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of Missouri, a candidate for Democratic re-nomination.
With the Senate scheduled to adjourn within two or three weeks, nothing has been done to help safeguard elections, Schoenbeck asserted. If the Democrats don't pass the bill, he said, the voters "will remind them in November that they cannot ignore the desire of the people for honest elections and expect to win at the polls."

Praises Judge Moore.
The G.O.P. senatorial candidate praised United States District Judge George H. Moore of St. Louis for his efforts to expose and punish "those guilty of corruption in high government places."

He said Moore had instructed a federal grand jury to find out what has been done by industrialists, munition-makers, labor unions, and Washington lobbyists in an attempt to influence elections in Missouri.

"All good people applaud Judge Moore for his latest effort to ferret out the truth as to whether there has been any attempt to undermine free elections in Missouri," he said. "They want to know whether the federal corrupt practices act, which limits to $25,000 the sum that can be spent on the election of a United States Senator, has been violated, and if so, by whom."

"Seats in the United States Senate should be won on the basis of merit in free elections. They should not be bought with funds collected under duress or donated by munitions makers or any other special interest groups."

Hocker Continues Tour.
Meanwhile, Lon Hocker of St. Louis, candidate for the G.O.P. nomination for Governor, continued his campaign trip through southwest Missouri with a talk before a Republican rally at Carthage last night. Hocker urged that efforts be made to develop small industries in rural areas to help bolster the income of small farmers.

"Farmers whose sales are less than $2500 a year need to supplement their income," he said. "If job opportunities are not provided locally, the eventual result is a loss of population to the big cities."

ELECTRICAL EMPLOYEES END WALKOUT IN KANSAS CITY

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11 (AP)—Union electrical employees, whose strike against the Kansas City Power & Light Co. caused state seizure of the utility, voted last night to ratify a new two-year contract.

The contract, retroactive to July 1, provides for a wage increase and increases in fringe benefits amounting to 6½ per cent. The wage increase amounts to 4.75 per cent and the high in fringe benefits to 1.75 per cent. A 4.75 per cent wage boost would be an increase of about 10.68 cents an hour. The average scale had been $2.25 hourly under the old contract. Also included is a one-year wage reopening clause.

Local 1464 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers went on strike last Thursday. Two other I.B.E.W. locals observed picket lines. Their membership is to vote on the agreement July 17. Ratification was expected. There was no interruption of power in the strike.

SAMOANS PLAN TO FOLLOW TRADITION ON SUFFRAGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., July 11 (AP)—A United Nations committee reported today that Western Samoans, scheduled to get self-government in 1960, have turned down universal suffrage in favor of tradition. The U.N. committee said inhabitants of Western Samoa, now run by New Zealand, shied away from giving every adult Samoan a vote in choosing the territorial legislature to be instituted next year. Instead, they want the vote to go only to the traditional spokesmen of the Samoan community—the more than 4500 family heads, or matais.

Samoans insist the matai system is in "full accord with democratic principles since the matais are chosen by the families which they head and are responsible to them."

Reds Deny Strike in East Berlin.
BERLIN, July 11 (AP)—Communist East Germany denied today that a strike of slaughterhouse workers took place last week in East Berlin. Telegraf, a West Berlin newspaper, reported yesterday that the workers had struck successfully against higher work quotas.

BRITISH ROUND UP 200 YOUNG CYPRIOTS

'Murder Mile' Cordoned Off in Hope of Seizing Rebel Leaders.

NICOSIA, Cyprus, July 11 (AP)—British troops and police rounded up 200 young Greek Cypriots today in a swoop on "Murder Mile" in Nicosia's inner walled city.

Authorities acted in the hope of seizing one or more top commanders of Eoka, the underground waging the campaign of violence to unite Cyprus with Greece.

There was no immediate indication that the British were successful.

They received a tip that Eoka's second-ranking leader was hiding in the teeming inner-walled section of the capital. They are searching for 23-year-old Markos Drakos, righthand man of Col. George Grivas, former Greek army officer the British believe is leading Eoka.

The troops cordoned off Ledra street, main thoroughfare in Nicosia which is called "Murder Mile" because of repeated shootings there. They lined up all Greek Cypriot men between the ages of 18 and 30, searched them for weapons and hauled about 200 off to an interrogation center.

After the roundup, troops and police searched stores, homes and business houses in the area around Ledra street. All traffic was halted and no one was allowed to leave or enter the cordoned section.

In the latest outbreak, a military patrol today found a car containing the bullet-riddled bodies of two men three miles outside of Larnaca, a port city 23 miles southeast of Nicosia.

Military authorities said they believed the double murder had political motives.

Meanwhile, a curfew was clamped on the mountain village of Evrychou, 30 miles west of Nicosia, after the police station was stoned there last night.

In Nicosia, the supreme court refused to commute the death sentence against a Greek Cypriot convicted of firing a revolver at two British airmen.

TEAR GAS USED AGAINST STUDENTS IN HONDURAS

TEGUCIGALPA, July 11 (AP)—Police threw tear gas bombs and fired in the air yesterday to disperse hundreds of persons thronging around the National University of Honduras.

There were no reports of injuries. A student strike under way for several days began spreading when the University Students Federation called for a creeping general strike and invited high school students to join a boycott of classes. The students, demonstrating against government policies, have been demanding ouster of their rector.

The government of Juliano Lozano Diaz has charged that opposition forces and Communist infiltrators were behind the strike in an effort to overthrow the government.

Art Baker Sued for Divorce.

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Radio and television announcer Art Baker was sued for divorce yesterday by Mrs. Alice P. Baker, who alleged cruelty. Baker is master of ceremonies of the "You Asked For It" TV program.

of July speech in Manila Nixon said the United States had "no sympathy" with those who draw no moral distinction between the Communist world and the Free world. A month ago, at Ames, Ia., Dulles said that except under very exceptional circumstances neutrality is an immoral and short-sighted conception.

Asian nations that have followed a policy of non-alignment with either East or West power bloc are India, Indonesia and Burma. A similar policy has been pursued by Yugoslavia.

The Secretary observed that he had qualified his remarks on the immorality of neutrality, and that his position was that a neutralism that was not concerned with the fate of other countries was immoral. Concern, he added, could be expressed through membership in the United Nations.

"Then, as a practical matter, there really aren't any neutrals," a reporter said. Dulles replied that very few if any countries were neutral in their neutral policies. He cited Switzerland as an example of a country that was not a U.N. member and that did not have a neutral policy that was immoral, because of special circumstances. Dulles said he thought it strange for neutral countries to denounce mutual security pacts, however.

About-Face on Stalin. Dulles opened the conference by reading a statement. It pointed out that the Soviet Communist party had tried to reassure the international Communist movement with respect to the abuses in the Stalin era revealed in the February speech by the Communist party chief, Nikita S. Khrushchev, but it said more was needed.

People brought into captivity by the violence and terrorism of Stalin's policies, and free people that have had to pay a heavy price to protect themselves, "are entitled to be assured that the evil done in Stalin's name will be undone and that such policies will not recur," Dulles said.

"The whole world will watch to see what will actually come of the present developments," Dulles continued. "If they (the Communists) dependably alter the domestic and foreign policies and practices of the Soviet state, it would beneficially transform the world scene. We hopefully await the coming of that day."

Asked whether he expected an alteration of Soviet policies, Dulles said he thought forces now working in the Communist world may prove to be irresistible and may result in gradual changes in the second post-war decade.

These forces could be reversed because they are not based on popular approval, Dulles said. But he added the direction was toward popular control and if policies became subject to the will of the people they would not be reversible.

German Reunification. Dulles said he thought the forces at work would lead to German reunification in the decade beginning this year. He said the United States could help speed the effects of the forces by setting an inspiring example.

Dulles said the State Department was disappointed to see John Sherman Cooper, ambassador to India, whom Dulles described as fine, able and sensitive, drop out of the New Delhi post. Cooper was asked by President Eisenhower to run for the Senate from Kentucky. Cooper's departure will not affect United States-Indian relations, Dulles said. He evaluated those relations as good, saying that while there were surface agitations, relations between the two countries were fundamentally wholesome and sound.

Dulles said also, commenting on West German and Japanese indifference to rearming, that the United States was not pressing for rearmament but that it considered West Germany should bear a fair share of North Atlantic Treaty Organization costs. The Japanese problem was a domestic one, he said.

Asked about the cut in foreign aid appropriations by Congress, Dulles said that if this country has to alter its aid policies drastically without cushioning the shock a disastrous effect could result in such countries as Korea, Formosa and Viet Nam.

6141 Etré avenue, Wellston, where last night's meeting took place.

From 18,000 to 20,000 homes and businesses in St. Louis and St. Louis county are without gas service as a result of the strike, company officials estimated.

Nine more reports of interruption of service were received yesterday and today from scattered locations in the city and county.

Some progress in contract negotiations was reported at last night's union mass meeting. Company and union representatives were to resume their talks today at the old federal building.

Appelbaum told the strikers that the company had agreed on certain benefits in the group health plan for employees, and the union dropped a request for an additional paid holiday.

'Riser' Dispute Continues. The two sides are in disagreement as to wages and vacations, he said, adding that attorneys are still trying to work out a solution to the principal dispute, concerning the installation of "riser" connections in gas lines. Company officials want this work to be done by private contractors. The union insisted that the job continue to be performed by company employees. A "riser" is a T-joint from which pipes run to gas appliances and heating units. Appelbaum said union negotiators rejected a company offer of a 3½ per cent general wage increase in a one-year contract. The union has been asking for an across-the-board hourly increase, in which each worker would receive the same wage rise. Under a percentage increase, workers being paid at a higher hourly rate would receive a proportionately greater rise.

The union originally asked for what amounted to a 9 per cent general increase. Appelbaum said. The company's first offer, he said, was a 4½ per cent rise for the first year of a new contract and an additional 3½ per cent for the second year.

He said the company yesterday for the first time offered a one-year contract, which meets one of the union's demands. However, he went on. Lacked officials want a new contract to start on the day the strikers return to work, instead of being retroactive to July 1.

At the conclusion of the meeting, the strikers gave their bargaining representatives a vote of confidence. A large majority of the 2200 union members attended the session. State officials are expected to file soon additional suits seeking financial penalties against the striking locals. Suits asking $35,000 in penalties, under provisions of the King-Thompson act, were filed last Saturday.

dollars were cashed through the Southmoor bank.

Hodge walked out of a conference in his office today with Contrakon refused to answer further questions on advice of counsel.

Contrakon immediately called reporters into Hodge's office and had a court reporter read them an account of his conversation with Hodge. The report quoted Contrakon as saying "I'm getting tired of getting pushed around. You get your attorney and let's get going."

Contrakon said he would have the sheriff serve a subpoena on Hodge "right away."

No Interest in Bank. In the record of the conversation Contrakon asked: "Do you have any interest in the Southmoor bank in Chicago?"

Hodge said "No." Contrakon: "Have you received any money from the Southmoor bank?"

Hodge said he had obtained a loan of $24,000.

Contrakon has disclosed that "most" of series of "questionable" checks issued by Hodge's office were cashed at the Southmoor bank.

Hodge said he "doesn't know anything" about the state checks in question. Contrakon asked Hodge if he would not think Contrakon guilty if the state's attorney acted as Hodge was acting.

Hodge said, "No, I wouldn't." Contrakon also recorded that Epping had also refused to talk with him without an attorney present.

Hodge and Contrakon conferred for nearly three hours yesterday on what Contrakon has called "possible misappropriation of funds" involving Hodge of a million dollars in the auditor's office.

Three-Hour Conference. Hodge emerged from the conference and told newsmen he "certainly" is still a candidate for re-election. Asked if he would remain a candidate, Hodge said "I hope so and I hope to be elected."

Hodge then called on Gov. Stratton. The Governor's only reply about their meeting was "no comment at this time."

Hodge told reporters he was continuing his own investigation of the charges and had turned over some information to Contrakon.

Then Contrakon came out of Hodge's office and said "we've got nothing yet."

Contrakon said he had questioned Hodge and had not been able to find out who authorizes warrants checks and who okays vouchers.

Asked if Hodge had an explanation of the matter, Contrakon said "none whatever."

"If nobody is able to tell me these things," Contrakon said, "I am going to interrogate everyone in this office if it takes me from now until Christmas."

Contrakon disputed Hodge's statement that he had turned over information to the state's attorney. "We've got nothing helpful yet" from Hodge, Contrakon said.

Helped When Arrested. Members of the ring never stay in one city more than four days, she said. If one of them is arrested, the other telephones headquarters and from there arrangements are made to get her out on bail.

Mrs. Kirschbaum was held and questioned at headquarters for only an hour and a half before a representative of Morris Shenker, attorney, was there to arrange her bail. She was not released immediately, however, because the amount of bail was not set and police officials planned to question her further.

RAILWAY PAYS UP AFTER LITIGANT
IMPOUNDS TRAIN

HULL, Que., July 11 (AP)—The Canadian Pacific Railway had owed Raymond Foucault $202.50 for five weeks and Foucault was tired of waiting. So he had the Ottawa-Maniwaki train—one locomotive, one tender, one baggage car and two passenger cars—seized and ordered sold for auction.

The railroad paid up in 24 hours. The story goes back to Oct. 7, 1953, when Foucault pleaded guilty to beating a C.P.R. employee on the train. Foucault paid a $25 fine and court costs. The railroad later sued him for the time his victim had lost and compensation for the injured man.

The suit was dismissed June 4 because the railway had failed to file its damage action within a year, as required by law. The court ordered the railroad to pay Foucault $202.50 costs.

When the money wasn't forthcoming, Foucault's lawyer applied for a seizure order. Monday, seizure papers were served involving the train, benches, chairs, a table and a typewriter in the station. Then the train was put in custody of its crew and allowed to make its run.

Late yesterday a C.P.R. attorney arrived with the $216.75 and the case was closed.

20-MILE 'RUBBER ROAD'

AMES, Ia., July 11 (UP)—Four construction firms will build an experimental "rubber road" between Ames and Des Moines, the Iowa State Highway Commission announced yesterday.

A 20-mile stretch of a highway carrying heavy traffic will be resurfaced with a mixture that includes 1500 pounds of artificial latex, the commission said. The latex is supposed to reduce cracking by making the road more flexible.

FARM SURPLUS CUT $1,264,800,000
IN SIX MONTHS

WASHINGTON, July 11 (UP)—President Eisenhower reported to Congress today that the Government sold or donated $1,264,800,000 in surplus farm products during the six months ended June 30. Overseas shipments accounted for most of the total.

The new amount brought the total cost of the program under a special disposal act to $2,953,000,000. The act, adopted in September 1954, permits the Government to sell farm surpluses abroad for foreign currency, to make donations to friendly countries for relief and welfare purposes, to finance shipping charges, to supply relief and welfare organizations and needy persons in this country, and to permit barter transactions abroad for strategic materials.

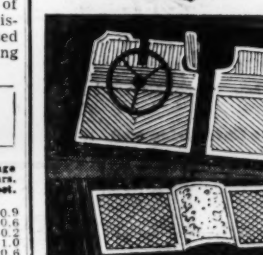

Mr. Eisenhower reminded Congress the Administration has recommended that the act be amended to increase the authorization amount of the foreign currency section from a billion and a half to three billion dollars, and that the United States be permitted to carry on barter transactions with Soviet Bloc countries.

The commodities were acquired under farm price support programs and the Government still holds commodities value at more than eight billions.

NEWSPAPER GUILD AGAINST FULL-TIME PAID PRESIDENT

TORONTO, July 11 (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild decided yesterday that its president will continue to serve without pay. Delegates to the Guild's convention adopted the majority report of a committee rejecting a proposal for a full-time paid president.

The report said the committee found some merit in arguments favoring a full-time president. It added: "But a majority remains of the opinion that our present administrative procedure, built around the concept of the president as a working newspaper man, rather than a union official, has advantages that more than balance its defects." The present Guild president is Joseph F. Collis of Wilkes Barre, Pa., elected last year for a two-year term.

TABER FAVORS $550,000,000 FOREIGN AID HIKE

Economy-Minded Republican's Plea Indicates Chance for Strategy Change.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Representative Taber (Rep.), New York, usually a strong advocate of cutting money bills, today urged the House to increase foreign aid appropriations by $550,000,000.

Taber led off House debate as Republican leaders indicated there could still be a last-minute strategy shift on the $3,600,000,000 aid bill President Eisenhower says cuts too deep.

The bill is some $1,400,000,000 below the five billion dollars Mr. Eisenhower sought for the next 12 months to help bolster free world countries against Communism.

Representative Martin of Massachusetts, the House Republican leader, said a House floor move to increase funds in the bill is still possible.

Original Strategy. Earlier, Martin had said the strategy would be to let the measure go to the Senate without risking possible defeat of a funds-restoration move in the House.

Democratic leaders said privately they would still prefer not to have the issue forced into an open vote, but would back an increase if it came to a vote.

Mr. Eisenhower wants the full increase which would be allowed under a recently-passed four-billion-dollar authorization bill setting ceilings on the aid program. Bulk of the increase permitted would be $550,000,000 which Taber said could be added to the military aid section of the money bill.

Taber, senior Republican on the House Appropriations Committee, told the House he favors restoring military aid to the bill without disclosing whether he would actually offer an amendment to do this.

Taber told the House: "I have many times voted against appropriations for so-called mutual security and foreign aid. I have voted against it when bills were brought on the floor that were too big and provided funds that were not needed."

Defense Needs. But Taber said, arms aid to other countries is needed to maintain defense lines such as in Korea where otherwise more American soldiers would have to be sent.

One of Taber's staunchest supporters in previous budget-cutting drives, Representative Wigglesworth (Rep.), Massachusetts, also advocated restoration of some of the money.

Wigglesworth said he was "unhappy" over the committee cuts in military aid.

"It has been cut altogether too deep," he said. "I cannot stand for economy at the expense of national security."

Referring to criticism by some members that the aid program is a "giveaway" project, Wigglesworth said "this is not a question of a giveaway program, but a question of national defense."

Representative Parnass (Dem., Louisiana, sponsor of the $3,600,000,000 bill, argued that it would still provide $700,000,000 more for arms aid than Congress voted last year.

Before debate began, House Democratic leader McCormack of Massachusetts said Congress would be cutting Mr. Eisenhower's foreign aid program even deeper if Republicans instead of Democrats were in control.

President's Protest. The President has strongly protested against House committee cuts in his program, and yesterday G.O.P. leaders said he disclosed he still plans to run for a second term when foreign aid came up in discussion of the legislative program.

He was quoted as telling the Republican chiefs at Gettysburg, Pa.: "I feel very deeply about this and I intend to campaign very vigorously and hard on this issue before the country this fall."

McCormack said in an interview "of course I'm glad" to have Mr. Eisenhower push the aid program.

McCormack added that foreign aid started as "Democratic policy" with the Marshall plan in the Truman Administration, and that he has long supported it as in America's best interest. After cutting past aid appropriations for ostensible economy reasons, he added, the Eisenhower Administration now is seeking a big increase to replenish a depleted aid "pipeline."

Asked whether Mr. Eisenhower could use the foreign aid issue as a call for election of a Republican Congress, McCormack said the President "would be on rather untenable ground on that."

Greatest Opposition. "The greatest opposition in Congress comes from the Republicans," the Democratic leader said. "The country should be thankful there is a Democratic majority in Congress because if there wasn't it would be cut further."

The bill as drafted by the Appropriations Committee would provide $3,665,920,000 or $1,405,955,000 below Mr. Eisenhower's request. Most of the cut—about $1,200,000,000—was from the three billions the President sought for military assistance abroad.

The Senate, meantime, neared a vote on a move to start an exhaustive study of the use of American funds abroad.

Senator Mansfield (Dem.), Montana, has proposed that the Senate vote $300,000 to finance a nonpartisan examination of all United States foreign policies, with a report to be made by next Jan. 31.

IRAQ KING, PRINCE FLYING TO AMMAN, EUROPE CAPITALS

BAGHDAD, July 11 (AP)—Iraq's King Faisal and Crown Prince Abdul Ilah left by plane today on the first stage of a two-month visit to Europe.

They flew first to Amman to spend two days with King Hussein of Jordan, Faisal's cousin. They leave Amman Friday for a three-day private visit to Belgium and then go on to Britain for a three-day state visit.

After the official visit to London, they will spend a month touring Britain as unofficial visitors. Faisal and his uncle will make unofficial stops in other European capitals before returning home in September.

Egypt's campaign against the Baghdad pact, of which both Britain and Iraq are members, and Egyptian maneuvers to draw Jordan away from Iraq and Britain are expected to be the major items discussed by Faisal and British officials. The British are counting heavily on the close relationship between Faisal and Hussein to keep Jordan out of the Egyptian camp.

2 Dead in Jet Trainer Crash. WILMINGTON, O., July 11 (AP)—Two Air Force men aboard a T-33 jet trainer were killed last night when it crashed on an approach to Clinton County Air Force Base.

The trainer was based at Wright-Patterson Air Force Base near Dayton, O. The dead were not identified immediately.

POLICE HUNTING TWO YOUTHS IN $2000 WAREHOUSE FIRE

Police today were searching for two youths, both about 15 years old, who are believed to have set fire yesterday to a one-story brick warehouse in the rear of Baby Heaven Inc., 5005 Gravois avenue. Firemen estimated damage to the building at $500 and to the contents, which consisted of children's furniture, at $1500. Police were told by witnesses of string under the doorway of that the youths pushed a length the warehouse, then ignited it.

PRIVATE PARKING GARAGE AT 6TH, PINE PROPOSED

Operators Group Makes Plan Contingent on Meeting of Several Conditions.

A proposal to construct a privately-owned and operated downtown parking garage at Sixth and Pine streets, if several conditions are met, was made yesterday by the St. Louis Parking Association, a group of owners and operators of parking facilities in St. Louis.

The association, which has been opposing bills pending before the Board of Aldermen to permit condemnation of two sites in the downtown area for the construction of city-owned parking garages, made its offer yesterday at a hearing conducted by the aldermanic committee on zoning, which is studying the measures.

The parking association's proposal, which President Donald Gunn of the Board of Aldermen said "must have been made with tongue in cheek," suggested construction of the garage on a site owned by the May Department Stores on the west side of Sixth street between Pine and Chestnut streets.

The offer is contingent on the May company's being willing to transfer the property to a corporation to be formed by selling stock solely to members of the parking association. The May company has owned most of the site for many years. The parking group would pay the May company the amount of the original cost of the property plus any other money the company has spent on it.

Another condition would be an agreement by Civic Progress, Inc. to purchase $500,000 in second-mortgage bonds payable out of revenue.

Stockholders in the proposed corporation would agree to subscribe $100,000 of a proposed $1,000,000 authorization. This sum, plus any proceeds derived from the sale of first-mortgage bonds, and the $500,000 from the second mortgage bonds would pay for and construct the garage.

If additional funds are needed, the association proposes to sell additional stock. Another condition would be agreement by the Associated Retailers of St. Louis, an organization of downtown merchants, and other business concerns in the area to validate the parking checks of their customers.

If all these conditions were met, the parking association said it would deposit $100,000 as the original subscription of paid-in capital stock in the new corporation within 30 days.

Most of the hearing yesterday was concerned with an attempt to determine why the Off-Street Parking Commission changed the proposed location for a proposed new parking garage from the west side of Sixth street between Pine and Chestnut to the east side.

Jack W. Hart, an officer of a consulting engineering firm which made studies for the commission, told the committee his firm had suggested five off-street parking sites in its preliminary report. One of these was the site on the east side of Sixth street.

The commission later asked the firm to make final studies on two sites designated by the commission, one on the other side of Sixth street and the second at Eighth street and Delmar boulevard. Studies indicated both of these were good sites for parking facilities, he said. Whether they are the best sites in the downtown area cannot be determined without complete studies of all sites, he stated.

The committee announced it would ask R. J. Stone, chairman of the commission, to explain why the Sixth street site had been moved across the street.

Democrats Challenge Eisenhower To Attack Their Congress Score

Say They'll Show They Helped Him on Legislative Program, With Chief Opposition From G.O.P.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Several Democrats challenged President Eisenhower today to raise Congress's handling of his legislative program as an issue in the coming campaign.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem.), Minnesota, said the Democrats were well armed with the facts about the lack of Republican support in Congress for foreign aid, for which Mr. Eisenhower is reported to have asserted yesterday he would campaign vigorously.

"Before Eisenhower starts trying to convince millions with his Leap year liberalism, I suggest that he try convincing about 225 Republicans in Congress who don't go along with him," Humphrey said. "It might be better for him to campaign a little for the farmers and small business men, for the old-age pensioners and the children in desperate need of schoolrooms."

Report of Irritation. Congressional Republican leaders who conferred with Mr. Eisenhower at Gettysburg yesterday represented him as "irritated" at the Democratic-controlled Congress and determined to make an issue in the fall campaign of its handling of his program. The President's reported attitude suggested to some Republicans he may be in a mood to make the Democratic Congress a campaign issue, much as President Truman did in 1948 when he belabored the G.O.P.-controlled Congress of that period.

If Mr. Eisenhower takes this step, he will come under fire from Democrats who recall that they helped him many times on legislation, sometimes mustering more votes for him than did the Republicans.

Several Democrats noted that Senator Walter F. George (Dem.), Georgia, supported the Administration strongly on its foreign aid proposals while such Republicans as Senator Styles Bridges of New Hampshire and Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California joined in trying to strike out all aid to Yugoslavia over Administration objections.

The House now appears likely to reduce actual appropriations to $3,600,000,000, about $1,300,000,000 less than the President asked for. Bridges said the Senate may be able to increase that figure somewhat. The leaders who talked with the President yesterday hurried back to the capital to pass along Mr. Eisenhower's views to the Senate Republican policy committee at a luncheon meeting.

Bridges said Knowland had gone over Mr. Eisenhower's requests one by one. He said there was no effort to put the G.O.P. Senators on record on the various proposals.

However, Knowland said in Gettysburg that Mr. Eisenhower had tagged 15 proposals for "priority" action. Topping the list was the foreign aid money bill.

Another of the 15 measures on the President's priority list, extension of the Defense Production Act, was included by mistake; it was passed last month. The status of the other matters:

Customs simplification: Passed the House in June 1955 and pending in the Senate.

Housing: Passed the Senate, approved by the House Banking Committee, but held up by the House Rules Committee.

Contract Renegotiation Act amendments: Pending on House calendar.

Immigration law changes: Pending in Senate and House committees.

MOLLET TO SEEK 10 PCT.
BOOST IN INCOME TAXES

PARIS, July 11 (AP)—Premier Mollet and his cabinet today decided to ask Parliament to increase this year's income taxes 10 per cent of the sum now being paid.

This money, plus the new tobacco taxes, is expected to provide 100 billion francs ($285,714,900) needed to carry on the military campaign against the Algerian rebels.

The new levy is called a "civic tax." Parliament is expected to vote the funds without putting the life of the Mollet government in jeopardy.

STATE CONVICTS
ENGAGE IN NOISY
PROTEST ON FOOD

1000 Participate in Demonstration Against Reduction in Meat Ration.

By BOYD F. CARROLL Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11—State penitentiary officials today confirmed reports that about 1000 convicts engaged in a noisy demonstration in three prison mess halls Monday night in protest against reduction in the meat ration during the summer.

Col. James D. Carter, director of the Department of Corrections, said the convicts did not engage in any violence, but yelled loudly, "we want meat," and "where's the meat," when they discovered the main item of the Monday evening meal was spaghetti.

The convicts, in three mess halls, stood and shouted for some time, then subsided without further protest, Carter said, after Deputy Warden William Steinhauser visited the three halls in turn and quieted the men.

Prison officials had not disclosed the disturbance until newspaper correspondents today asked Carter about reports of mess hall trouble.

Carter said the prison started a gradual curtailment of the amount of meat last week by reducing the number of meals with meat.

"We had been serving meat twice a day for some time, since we increased the number of daily meals from two to three," Carter said. "We planned this summer to cut down the amount of meat used by dropping meat from one meal a day for two days a week, the next week to do this on three days, until we got back to the schedule of one meal a day for the week."

Asked why the change was proposed, Carter said, "We do not think the men need two meat meals a day in the summer."

He said the prison had adequate funds to maintain the former meat menu, but had planned to build up some reserve in the mess fund by the change in the meals.

TWO EAST SIDERS INDICTED ON GAMBLING STAMP CHARGES

Two alleged East Side gamblers were indicted yesterday by a federal grand jury at Springfield, Ill., on charges of failure to obtain federal wagering stamps.

Under indictment are Raymond Johnson, owner of Ray's Grill, 1305 Madison avenue, Granite City, and Lindell Motes, bartender at the grill, which was raided by federal agents last May 28. The two were charged with accepting horse race bets without having a $50 federal wagering stamp after agents said they placed a bet on a horse.

Sol Burrell, arrested in a similar raid at Joe's Madhouse Tavern, 1331 North Fourteenth street, East St. Louis, without knowledge of local authorities, was sentenced recently to serve one year in a federal penitentiary and fined $500. He pleaded guilty to accepting bets without having a federal wagering stamp and received the maximum penalty.

TAVERN, CUSTOMER ROBBED

A tavern at 4258 Schiller place was held up early today by a man who took $43 from the proprietor, Ray Yavonovich, and $35 from a customer, Robert Vesich, 4370 Manchester avenue, police said.

Yavonovich told officers the robber, armed with a nickel-plated revolver, ordered him and Vesich to put their hands and billfolds on the bar. The man then took the money and fled.

FUND'S AID ONCE WITH RED GROUP, WITNESS SAYS

Employee Who Worked on Republic Blacklisting Report Named at Hearing.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (UP)—A New York newspaper man testified today that one of the researchers on the Fund for the Republic's report about blacklisting in the entertainment field was once "very active" in a "Communist" group on Time magazine.

Frederick Woltman, staff writer for the New York World-Telegram and Sun, named the researcher as Elizabeth Poe of Los Angeles. Miss Poe assisted in a part of the report dealing with blacklisting of Communist-tainted actors in the movie industry.

Woltman told the House Committee on Un-American Activities that he had asked John Cogley, author of the report, why he had hired Miss Poe to help John Jacobs in the Hollywood study. Woltman quoted Cogley as replying:

"We've got one anti-Communist—Jacobs—and we need someone friendly to them."

Inquiry Into Report. Woltman was called in the committee's investigation of the blacklisting report. He has been identified as one of the persons having a hand in getting "clearance" for actors thrown out of work because of false Communist charges.

Woltman said the advertising agencies "were made the goats" in the blacklisting report. He indicated belief that agencies would be less inclined now to go to bat with sponsors for entertainers falsely accused of pro-Communist activities.

"They are going to be much more careful now in handling individuals accused of being Communists," he said. "The report put them on the spot for doing something they ought to be doing."

He expressed belief that "anybody who breaks with Communism ought to get a break." Committee chairman Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), lauded Woltman for his "great contribution" in the fight against Communism. So did Representative Donald L. Jackson (Rep., California).

Report Is Praised. Earlier, Arnold Forster, General Counsel for B'nai B'rith's Anti-Defamation League, told the committee that "a serious problem of blacklisting" does exist in the entertainment field. He praised the report for bringing it to light.

Urging the committee to seek a solution to the problem, Forster said it was a "dreadful thing" for entertainers to be thrown out of work because of Communist charges without giving them a chance to be heard on the charges.

By the Associated Press. Robert M. Hutchins, president of the Fund for the Republic, said in a New York statement the fund has "complete faith in the journalistic integrity" of Cogley and criticized the committee for questioning him. "The fund believes that this independent factual assessment of a major civil liberties problem has made a valuable contribution to the preservation of the Bill of Rights," Hutchins said.

INDIAN SIGN ON RAJAH—DOWN TO LAST 4 ELEPHANTS

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—The Maharajah of Jaipur said today he is down to his last four elephants and is turning one of his five remaining palaces into a hotel.

It isn't that the 44-year-old maharajah is starving, or anything like that. But his income is a paltry $335,000 a year since under the new order of things in India—he became governor of Jaipur instead of its absolute ruler.

With this kind of money, he told a reporter, he cannot afford to run half a dozen palaces. He has been forced already to cut his staff of 600 servants in half, and has given one palace to the Indian government for use as a guest house.

The maharajah figures he can still keep four palaces going and, he explained, "it would be silly to leave the fifth empty, so we will turn it into a family business."

The palace he plans to turn into a tourist hotel is surrounded by an 18-hole golf course. It will contain 60 to 70 bedrooms. The maharajah hopes to hire an experienced hotel manager during his present stay in England.

The maharajah once owned 70 elephants, used mainly for tiger hunting.

MANILA, July 11—The Philippine Senate last night voted approval of an $800,000,000 Japanese reparations agreement, coupled with ratification of the San Francisco peace treaty signed in 1951.

The action was what is called passage on second reading. The third reading will take place when the ratification resolution comes back from the government printing office, probably Friday.

Final ratification will end the state of war existing since the Japanese surrender in 1945 and permit the establishment of diplomatic relations. The reparations will be in two parts. Japan will furnish $550,000,000, mainly in industrial equipment over a 20-year period, and $250,000,000 on loans and credits to assist in development. The latter will be independent of the government on a commercial basis.

BAGHDAD PACT UPHELD BY IRAN'S SHAH IN MOSCOW

Alliance Is Not 'Aggressive Bloc,' Ruler Tells Red Leaders at Kremlin Party.

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch Special Radio.

MOSCOW, July 11 — The Shah of Iran stood up in the Kremlin last night and told the leaders of Communism that the Baghdad Pact was not an "aggressive bloc" aimed at the Soviet Union.

This dramatic statement came at a glittering reception given by Kliment E. Voroshilov, Soviet chief of state for the Iranian ruler and queen Soraya, who are ending a two-week state visit here.

The Shah's remark came after Voroshilov said the Soviet Union "never threatened and never will threaten Iran," its oil-rich southern neighbor. "We wish the territory of Iran never to be used to threaten our southern borders," he said.

"That is why we openly declare we are against any aggressive group which on one hand is a danger to peace in the world as a whole and on the other constitutes a continuation of colonial policy with regard to the countries of the Middle East."

Voroshilov did not mention the western-sponsored Baghdad Pact in which Iran is a member, but it was clear he was talking about it. In reply the Shah defended the pact, also without using its name.

"The Iranian Government never joins any aggressive bloc against the U.S.S.R. and never will do it," he said. "If the Iranian Government has undertaken means for defense, they have been dictated on the basis of past experience and the general international situation."

In the festive atmosphere, the Shah did not spell out Iran's "past experience." It was recalled that after World War II Soviet troops remained in Iran's northwestern province of Azerbaijan after the treaty evacuation date and Soviet propagandists demanded "autonomy" for the border region.

Soviet-Iranian relations have improved since the border quarrel in 1946. The Soviet Union now says it has no territorial demands on Iran and a five-nation team has agreed on border demarcation lines.

It was learned last night that the Shah had decided not to sign a joint communiqué with Soviet leaders concerning talks that have taken place. Most visiting leaders sign such communiqués and they are invariably hailed by the Soviet propaganda apparatus as signs of Russian peaceful intentions.

The Shah, who arrived here June 25, is due to depart for home tomorrow after another round of talks in the Kremlin. The lack of a communiqué and his remarks last night indicated to some diplomats that the visit had produced no shift of Iran's policy toward the Soviet orbit.

RULE FOR SECURITY CHECKS DENOUNCED

Civil Liberties Union Hits at Defense Code for Non-Sensitive Jobs.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (UP)—The American Civil Liberties Union has attacked a Defense Department regulation allowing security checks on non-sensitive employees of universities and industrial plants having defense contracts.

It made public a letter to Secretary of Defense Charles E. Wilson yesterday calling the regulation an "unconstitutional extension of security regulation." The regulation is contained in a department document called the "Industrial Security Manual for Safeguarding Classified Information."

The ACLU said the regulation infringes on "freedom of belief and association, due process and academic freedom." The manual says that anyone with defense contracts must submit information about "any of his employees" if requested to do so by federal security officers.

The letter to Wilson said "the whole procedure can be one of secret investigation and subsequent disclosure of judgment applied to persons who have no connection with classified work except accidents of site proximity and ordinary community contact with classified activity personnel."

The ACLU said it had been told by the Defense Department that "very few situations" would arise in which information about teachers would be needed. But it said it had received "no assurance that information by a teacher to his institution in connection with his academic position will not be transmitted to the Government for judgment not relating to academic matters."

The ACLU said "the legitimate concern of the Government with national security does not give it the right to know anything it may want to know about anyone."

PRESIDENT, HALL TO TALK CAMPAIGN PLANS TOMORROW

any doubt that he would stay in the race?"

"I don't think so," Hagerty said.

Then a reporter asked if there ever was any doubt the President's hat would remain in the ring?

"I don't think so," the press secretary replied.

Hall was notified.

Hagerty said in answer to further questions that he told Republican chairman Hall about the Knowland announcement by telephone a few minutes before the Senate leader gave it to reporters.

Hall said in Washington later that Mr. Eisenhower's Feb. 29 decision to run had been "reconfirmed today as millions of Americans expected."

"People in every walk of life are rejoicing," he declared.

Hagerty said Mr. Eisenhower's disclosure of his intentions "came up" in a discussion of foreign aid legislation with the congressional leaders. His comment did not dispel a general impression among reporters that the White House was happy to have the word to get out indirectly.

A formal Eisenhower announcement that he was still running could have given the impression that there had been some doubt about the matter—an impression Hagerty plainly sought to play down, although there had been widespread speculation ever since the operation.

Question on Nixon.

A reporter asked Hagerty if it also could be assumed "there is no need to rethink" the candidacy of Vice President Nixon as Mr. Eisenhower's running mate.

"I think that is correct," Hagerty replied.

A United Press dispatch reported further that a reporter said there had been "some grumblings against Nixon, as you know—most of it under cover," and asked whether Hagerty thought "the President's faith in Nixon has been shaken?"

"I will stick right to my answer," Hagerty said.

Mr. Eisenhower got in some golf practice yesterday, walked about seven tenths of a mile and spent most of the afternoon watching the All-Star baseball game on television. The 7-3 victory of the National League apparently wasn't the outcome he had been hoping for. Asked for the President's reaction, Hagerty said: "He and I were rooting for the wrong team."

Two British Papers Question Decision to Run.

LONDON, July 11 (AP)—Two British newspapers friendly to the United States expressed doubts on President Eisenhower's decision to run again.

Said the Conservative Daily Telegraph: "The whole American system of government depends on a dynamic interpretation of the presidential office."

It is questionable whether a President who must take things easily can exercise that essential degree of sustained initiative without which the system runs down . . .

"Secondly—and this point cannot be balked—there is the question of who would succeed Mr. Eisenhower if he was incapacitated in mid-term. Mr. Nixon is not, in the eyes of many, a person of the same caliber."

The Liberal News Chronicle commented: "The question remains whether the United States can afford Mr. Eisenhower for another four years in the White House. Its solution will require much more than the advice of trusted doctors."

"For the President is not only the commander in chief, the principal administrative officer, the ceremonial head, the signer of state papers and the keeper of the public conscience. "He is also the legislative leader in the hurly-burly of American politics and patronage and, since Roosevelt internationalized America, the West's pacemaker in foreign affairs."

"His absence has been sorely felt at all these levels."

MILLER CHARGED WITH CONTEMPT BY HOUSE GROUP

But Action Won't Stop Writer's Honeymoon in Europe With Marilyn Monroe.

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 11—Arthur Miller, the playwright, was charged yesterday by the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

Miller testified freely before the committee June 21 about his own past associations with Communism but he declined for reasons of conscience to name other persons he had seen at meetings. The committee warned him that he might face contempt action unless he supplied the names.

The committee voted unanimously in closed session for the contempt recommendation. It now goes to the full House, which almost invariably approves contempt actions recommended by its committees. Then the Justice Department would have to seek an indictment and prosecute. The maximum penalty is a year in jail and a $1000 fine.

Miller is scheduled to fly to England Friday with his recent bride, Marilyn Monroe.

Won't Block Trip.
(The United Press reported Chairman Francis E. Walter (Dem., Pennsylvania), said today the committee would not block the European honeymoon of the pair. Miller only recently received a six-month passport from the State Department where a spokesman said no action to revoke the passport would be taken.)

In the past the courts have set few limits on a congressional committee's power to make a witness inform on past associates. But Miller's attorneys had given the House group a brief citing a dozen cases in which committees themselves did not press contempt charges against witnesses who refused to talk about others. The brief argued further that Miller had taken the most honest and courageous of three courses open to persons who do not want to testify about past associates. The other two indicated courts were to "forget" the names of other implicated persons or to take refuge in the Fifth Amendment and not testify at all.

Cites Co-operation.
The brief described Miller as generally friendly and cooperative in his appearance June 21. It concluded with the hope that the committee would not "think it necessary to add to the ordeal which he has already undergone the further penalty of criminal punishment."

Miller wrote a lengthy letter to Chairman Walter. "I know myself to be a person devoted to democratic institutions and opposed to totalitarianism," Miller wrote.

"The meetings in question occurred nearly 10 years ago. At that time the Communist party, as far as I was aware, had not been declared a conspiracy but was legally recognized and accorded the common privileges of a political party."

"On the ground of their participating in illegal actions, therefore, I cannot justify myself naming these people. But in addition the five or six whose names I know are, to my knowledge, as they were at the time, free-lance writers or minor figures in the theatrical world, and they have had no governmental or industrial function."

Says Testimony Isn't Justified.
Miller said a witness would be justified in informing on others if they had misled or tricked him or if he knew of plans on their part to harm this country. He said neither situation applied in his case.

By the Associated Press.
Miller, at his home in Roxbury, Conn., said: "I regret that they've done this, since I had no contemptuous intention. I suppose the rest remains for the courts to decide."

Asked if he might change his position on the matter of revealing names, Miller said, "No, I'm afraid I can't. I won't." He said the committee action "can't change my opinion of what is right and wrong."

Two Professors Reindicted on Contempt Charges.
COLUMBUS, O., July 11 (AP)—A federal grand jury reindicted two college professors yesterday, charging them with contempt of Congress for refusing to answer questions at a House Un-American Activities subcommittee hearing in Dayton in September, 1954.

They are Robert M. Metcalf, a professor at Antioch College, Yellow Springs, O., and Lee Lorch, a professor at Philander Smith College, Little Rock, Ark.

Metcalf was indicted on four counts of refusing to tell the House subcommittee whether he had connections with a "Marxist group" at Antioch College in 1945-46.

Lorch faces eight counts of refusing to testify on alleged Communist activities in the Dayton-Yellow Springs area. At the time of the subcommittee hearing, he was on the faculty of Fiske University, Nashville, Tenn. He is a former member of the staffs of Pennsylvania State College and City College of New York.

Both had been indicted previously on the same charges in connection with the same subcommittee hearing. The first indictments were not forwarded properly.

BOY HUNTING FROGS DROWNS IN LEMAY

Efforts of Another Youth to Save Him Are Unsuccessful.

Bernard Melink Jr., 16 years old, 918 Wachtel avenue, Lemay, drowned yesterday while hunting frogs in a pond near Horn avenue and South Broadway, Lemay. Efforts of another youth to save him were unsuccessful.

Bernard, a freshman at Hancock High School, and Benedict Eldridge, 16, and Joseph Eldridge, 14, brothers who live at 216 East Marceau street, had gone to the pond about 5 p.m. None of the three could swim. The Eldridge brothers stayed on the bank of the pond, watching a baseball game on a nearby diamond, while the Melink boy, holding an inner tube, waded out into the water. The Eldridges told St. Louis county police they suddenly heard Bernard call for help and saw him sink beneath the surface. They ran to the baseball diamond for assistance and Charles Hartmann, 16-year-old Eagle Scout, ran to the pond, pulled off his clothes and swam out in a vain attempt to locate Bernard in time to rescue him. After a 15-minute search in the water, Hartmann found the body on the bottom of the pond, 35 feet from the bank in water five and one-half feet deep. He applied artificial respiration until an inhalator crew from the Lemay Fire Department arrived, but all efforts to revive the Melink boy were unsuccessful.

VOLUNTEER PLAN IN SIBERIA IS REPORTED GOING AMISS

GENEVA, July 11 (AP)—The Russian government told yesterday of "serious shortcomings" in the activities of the Young Communist League. Mrs. L. V. Dubrovina, deputy education minister of the Russian Soviet Republic, reported to the International Education Conference here that the league—which has 18,000,000 members—had produced "resolutions, pomp and fuss" instead of contributing to the economic development of Siberia and the Arctic steppes. The report hinted the program for developing the vast wilderness of Siberia with young "volunteers" was not going according to plan.

ACTOR BOBBY DRISCOLL HELD ON NARCOTIC CHARGE

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Actor Bobby Driscoll, 19 years old, who has been making movies since he was 5, was arrested last night on a narcotics charge, police said. The actor, best remembered for his role in "Treasure Island," was taken into custody at his home after police stopped a friend who had just driven away. The officers said they recovered a bag of marijuana thrown from the car of the friend, Lester O. Ferguson, a service station attendant. Both Driscoll and Ferguson denied any knowledge of the marijuana. Driscoll was awarded a special Oscar by the Motion Picture Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1949 as the best child actor of the year.

FERGUSON COUNCIL VOTES TO IMPROVE PAUL AVENUE

The Ferguson City Council decided last night to improve Paul avenue, from South Florissant boulevard to the Wabash Railroad overpass, despite a protest by almost 80 per cent of residents in that area. The street will be paved with concrete, 30 feet wide, and will connect another section already paved on Paul between the overpass and the Wabash grade crossing. Residents contended there was not enough traffic to warrant the improvement. All six councilmen present at the meeting voted to improve Paul, which runs east of South Florissant to Universal Match Corp.

BEHIND-SCENES MOVE TO REPLACE ADENAUER BEGUN

BONN, Germany, July 11 (AP)—A behind-scenes movement to replace Chancellor Adenauer with Finance Minister Fritz Schaeffer was reported last night.

Franz Josef Strauss, federal minister for atomic development, first hinted at the movement in a weekend speech. Questioned by reporters, his ministry confirmed that some German politicians were circulating a petition to displace the 80-year-old Chancellor.

Strauss and other officials declined to discuss, however, who started the movement. They said the petition called on the Socialists, the Free Democrats, the Refugee party and the Bavarian wing of Adenauer's Christian Democratic Union to form a new government. These four groups control 255 votes in the Bundestag, or Lower House, where a vote of 244 is needed to name a new Chancellor. Although the Bavarian wing of Adenauer's party frequently differs with him, it was unlikely to join any move to overthrow him.

B-52 TO JOIN IN BOMBING CONTEST FOR FIRST TIME

OMAHA, July 11 (AP)—The B-52 eight-jet bomber will participate for the first time this year in the Strategic Air Command's annual bombing navigation and reconnaissance competition, SAC headquarters announced yesterday. The eighth annual competition begins Aug. 24 and will match top combat crews of the B-52, the B-36 and B-47 bombers in a six-day event. Competing crews are selected by wing commanders on the basis of their year-round performance. In the competition they will make three radar bomb runs on different targets and a night celestial navigation

His Last Switch in Motor Cars!

We have no way of knowing, of course, how many different makes of motor cars this gentleman has owned through the years. But we'd wager that he has changed his preference a great many times in his years on the highway.

And we're also willing to bet that he has now made his last switch in motor cars! For this time it's a Cadillac! And it is historically true that once a motorist makes the move to the "car of cars", he is usually a Cadillac owner for life.

What are the reasons for this great loyalty? Well, let us count them off. First of all, there are the things which everyone recognizes in Cadillac. There is its great beauty... its matchless luxury... and the unquestioned respect which the car commands the world over.

Then there are those qualities with which anyone who has ever driven a Cadillac is familiar. There is its marvelous comfort and ease of handling... its magnificent power and performance... its wonderful balance and agility... and its extraordinary quietness of operation.

And, finally, there are those things which only Cadillac owners themselves can fully appreciate. There is the car's remarkable economy of operation and upkeep—its incredible longevity—its marvelous resale value—and the great pride and happiness that it bestows upon the man at the wheel.

If this little check list of Cadillac virtues coincides with what you've been looking for in a motor car, you ought to come in and see us very soon.

You'll find, by the way, that we have recently made two additions to this list of things you get when you make your decision for Cadillac.

We're talking about prompt delivery and a generous trade-in allowance!

Better come in while the circumstances are so favorable—and make your last switch in motor cars!

NAVY EXPECTS H-BOMB MISSILE IN A FEW YEARS

Admirals Tell Senate Group Study Is Under Way on Best Ships to Use Weapon.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—The Navy says it will be only "a few years" before it will be firing ballistic missiles fitted with "high-yield nuclear warheads."

Progress in the field of naval missiles was disclosed by Adm. John E. Clark and V. Adm. Thomas S. Combs in testimony given to a Senate Armed Services subcommittee and made public yesterday in highly censored form.

The officers said the Navy has spent 10 years developing its missile arsenal and has achieved a "significant reduction in weight of high-yield nuclear warheads."

By "high-yield" they meant a big explosion from, comparatively, a very small amount of fissionable material. The term is generally applied to hydrogen bombs.

Jupiter Development.
Clark, director of the Navy's guided missile program, testified the Navy's fleet ballistic missile, Jupiter, being developed jointly with the Army, will be in operation in a "few years"—long before the expected perfection of counter measures against the weapon which travels many times faster than sound.

Clark said "we will be reasonably sure of the form that the ballistic missile will take" within a year, and that the Navy is already studying the types of ships that can use it.

He said submarines are definitely under consideration, that large cruisers could be used and that a battleship may be the best type.

Much of Combs' testimony at the hearing last month was censored out of the published report for security reasons.

He was permitted to say for the record that the Navy's new carrier-borne medium bomber, the A-3D, has a speed of about 600 miles an hour and an operating ceiling of more than 30,000 feet.

Combs is deputy chief of naval operations for air.

47 Missile Ships.
Adm. Clark said that by 1961 the Navy will have 47 guided missile ships, enough to protect three carrier task groups.

He estimated the Navy will be "respectably missileized" in the next four or five years "both offensively and defensively."

The published testimony also disclosed new information about the Navy's Seamaster jet-powered seaplane.

The second Seamaster is now undergoing flight tests. The first crashed in Chesapeake bay last year.

Combs and Adm. James S. Russell, chief of the Bureau of Aeronautics, said the Seamaster can land and take off in waves up to six feet high, can refuel in the air or on the surface and carry a payload up to 30,000 pounds within a combat radius of well over 1500 miles.

Combs claimed for the Navy, particularly for its carrier task forces, great versatility. Because of this wide range of capabilities, he said, the Navy has a choice of how it will accomplish each job.

"We may be called upon to pick the lock, but if need be, we can batter down the door," the air admiral declared.

CATHOLIC NEWSBOYS BLOCK SALE OF SEXY MAGAZINES

SYDNEY, July 11 (AP)—A campaign by Roman Catholic newsboys against sexy magazines is making itself felt at Melbourne, Australia's second city and site of the 1956 Olympics.

A month ago 80 boys at St. Mary's Catholic school in West Melbourne blacklisted 21 magazines on their delivery list.

Since then other newsboys have joined the movement until it now numbers 350.

Melbourne's Roman Catholic weekly, the Advocate, reports publishers and distributors are alarmed over a drop in sales brought about by the newsboys' action.

C. B. RANDALL NAMED AID TO EISENHOWER

Succeeds Dodge as Special Assistant on Foreign Economic Policy.

GETTYSBURG, Pa., July 11 (AP)—The White House announced the appointment yesterday of Clarence B. Randall as special assistant to the President on foreign economic policy.

Randall will succeed Joseph M. Dodge, a former budget director, who recently resigned to return to his Detroit banking post. Randall, who lives in Cleveland, O., is chairman of the board of Inland Steel Co. Randall headed a presidential commission which made extensive recommendations on tariff and related matters earlier in the Eisenhower administration.

The special assistant post will be only part-time. Randall will get a consultant's fee of $50 a day when he is working at the job. Mr. Eisenhower, in a letter to Randall, said he was "delighted" that he was taking over the post, which will make him chairman of the Council on Foreign Economic Policy. This group includes the Secretaries of State, Treasury, Agriculture and Commerce and the director of the International Co-Operation Administration. Several presidential aids also serve on the council. "As part of your mission," the President told Randall, "I shall look to you and your associates for the development of foreign economic policies and programs designed to meet the special problems created by Communist economic activities in underdeveloped areas of the free world." The President invited Randall to attend "pertinent meetings of the Cabinet and of the National Security Council."

Scaffold Breaks, 3 Killed. CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—A scaffold broke loose and three men plunged 125 feet to their deaths at Lake Calumet harbor yesterday. The men were identified as Albert V. Sabatini, Gonzales Compos and Arthur T. McKay, all of Chicago. They were working on a grain elevator.

5 ROCKEFELLER BROTHERS JOIN IN TEXAS VENTURE DALLAS, July 11 (AP)—Five Rockefeller brothers have joined in development of a 5000-acre industrial district in the Fort Worth-Dallas area. William Rockefeller announced yesterday. The New York real estate man said it was the first time the Rockefellers—John III, Nelson, Laurance, David and Winthrop—have extended their real estate holdings in a large way off Manhattan Island. Zeckendorf is one of the principals in the multi-million-dollar development. The announcement was made at a meeting in which the 2400-acre Waggoner Arlington Downs-3D ranch property changed hands. The tract is the largest in the development district at Grand Prairie and Arlington. The sale price was $5,776,449.

COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS Mr. and Mrs. Steven F. Sym-sack, 5207 Alabama avenue, celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary recently with a party for friends and members of their family. They have four sons, two daughters and 10 grandchildren. Sym-sack, a retired Public Service Co. employee, is 73 years old. Mrs. Sym-sack is 69.

Insults for All at Russian Vodka Party, But Nobody Felt Offended

Khrushchev's Tippy Condition Taken Into Account, as Story Is Told to Senators — 'Very Convivial Affair.'

The New York Times News Service.

Copyright, 1956, by the New York Times Co.

WASHINGTON, July 11—

The hangover details of the big

Bulgarian-Khrushchev vodka party came out yesterday. It seems the Russians got tipsy and insulted everybody but nobody felt offended.

Some of the bawdier details leaked out after Gen. Nathan

F. Twining, Air Force chief of staff, appeared in a closed session of the Senate Armed Services Committee. He testified about his visit to the Soviet Air Force day celebration on June 24 in Moscow.

"It was a rough party," said a chuckling Senator, "but our fellows took it good-humoredly."

Apparently because of the condition of the hosts, none of the guests took offense. As one

Air Force spokesman put it, the party was convivial and nothing happened that required an apology.

Whole World Encompassed.

The vodka had been flowing like the River Don for some time when Nikita S. Khrushchev,

Soviet Communist party leader, poured out a string of offensive remarks that encompassed the whole world—big nations, little nations, Soviet satellites.

Some Senators said Khrushchev told Gen. Twining how much "he liked President Eisenhower but disliked the men around him."

There was an opera bouffe interlude between Khrushchev and his political and drinking companion, Premier Bulganin.

The Premier took some western diplomats for a jerky rowboat ride on the placid waters of a lake on the estate where the party was being held. He wanted to demonstrate for them not the Volga boat song, but the "Volga stroke."

Bulgian's stroke was pretty much like the Central Park lake stroke, only more erratic. Anyway, Khrushchev got hot under the collar about something and in the midst of his military and diplomatic guests began an invective speech. In effect, he said all things western were

"lousy" and everything Soviet was topnotch.

"Shut Up" in Russian.

The stroking Bulgianin yelled at him the Russian equivalent of "Shut up." A Senator said interpreters asked all and sundry to please overlook what Khrushchev had said. They made excuses not only on the basis of too much vodka but also of the leader's temperament. In recent months western visitors to Moscow have been reporting that behind

Khrushchev's "smile" policy and good-time attitude lurks a man with tyrannical traits.

Gen. Twining told the Senator he and Marshal Georgi

Zhukov, the Soviet Defense

Minister, passed up a lot of the vodka toasts and one that was pointedly ignored was the one to Red China.

While some in the party criticized the Russians for bad manners, the Americans on the whole felt you don't get wrong with people who are lubri-cated with vodka.

"It was a very congenial, convivial affair," said a member of Gen. Twining's party.

"Nobody was nasty to anybody."

ber of Gen. Twining's party.

MUSCOVITES LOSE ANOTHER FREEDOM — RIGHT TO HONK

The New York Herald Tribune Post-Dispatch.

Special Staff.

MOSCOW, July 11—A showdown will soon take place between the Communist city fathers of Moscow and the last rugged individualists in their domain—the horn-honking Muscovite autoists.

The Moscow City Soviet, (city council), has decreed that on

Aug. 1 the planned peace and quiet of this city must no longer be violated by the random blowing of horns.

Unwittingly or not, the Soviet has deprived the Moscow driver of his principal weapon against pedestrians, who cross streets whether the lights are red, amber or green.

To pass this human barricade, motorists here have developed a technique. It consists of leaning on the horn and the accelerator at the same time and heading straight into the crowd.

The Soviet made an exception of ambulances, which apparently are to be allowed to sound their horns as they speed through the city collecting persons who did not notice the approach of silent vehicles.

VINITA PARK'S BONDS SOLD

BY METROPOLITAN DISTRICT

The Metropolitan St. Louis

Sewer District today sold $125,- 000 in bonds, voted June 29 by the Vinita Park trunk sewer subdistrict, to Yafes, Heitner

& Woods, 329 North Fourth street. The company, highest of four bidders, offered $125,-

140 at an interest cost of $50,-

738.13 over a 20-year period.

Effective interest rate was 3.36 per cent.

Field survey work has been started on three miles of main trunk sewer and several ancillary lines to connect the Vinitia Park subdistrict to the University City system.

There will be an election

Aug. 23 at which voters will elect a member of the North Afton subdistrict, south of Webster Groves, will consider authorization of $175,000 in bonds.

The Metropolitan district's policy on septic tanks will be discussed at a public hearing

July 19 at 8 p.m. at the county courthouse in Clayton.

IO CASES OF BEER FOUND

IN CAR, 5 YOUTHS ARRESTED

Five youths ranging from 17 to 20 years of age were arrested in an automobile at Fairview avenue and Morganfield road early today. Police said they found 10 cases of beer in the back seat, which the youths said had been purchased from an unknown vendor at $1 a case.

The driver of the car, who identified himself as Leon Wilson, 17, a salesman, of the 1500

block of South Seventh street, was booked on charges of driving without a city automobile license, displaying an obscure state license, and having a defective muffler. He told officers he had bought the car for $30, they said.

When police talked with the five later, one of them told of having stolen the beer from a truck on a parking lot near Fal-staff Brewing Corp., 3684 Forest Park avenue. Arrest of the five came after police were called to the neighborhood to investigate complaints involving other machines.

HENNINGS, BLAIR INDORSED BY CREVE COEUR GROUP

United States Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. was indorsed for Democratic renomination last night by the Creve

Coeur Township Democratic

Club, which also announced its endorsements for nominations to state and county offices.

In contested races, the club announced it will back Lt. Gov.

James T. Blair Jr. for the gubernatorial nomination, State

Senator Edward V. Long for

Lieutenant Governor, Attorney

General John M. Dalton for re-nomination, and William B.

Millus for Congress, Second

District. Mrs. Audrey M. Delano, retiring committeewoman, who heads her own township group, indorsed all of these candidates except Millus, slating James L. Sullivan Jr. for Congress, instead.

The regular township club is supporting Thomas R. Schwarz for circuit judge, division 6;

Eugene H. Buder for sheriff,

Curtis L. Mann for state representative and Saul J. Hutnick for public administrator. Mrs.

Delano's group has slated John

B. Busch for circuit judge, John

C. Byrne for sheriff, Chaim H.

Zimbalist for state representative, and Edward A. Walsh for public administrator.

ALGIERS, July 11 (UPI)—

French infantry patrols killed

29 nationalist rebels in Algeria's Constantine department yesterday and today, the army announced. This was disclosed as more than 9000 French troops supported by artillery and planes pushed a gigantic clean-up campaign in an area only 35 miles south of Algiers.

The large-scale action failed to flush out any sizeable rebel groups, but small patrol actions in the Constantine area continued to cut down guerrilla strength. In one clash, French machine gun fire cut down 14 rebels.

French patrols killed 15 more extremists in other small battles, and police arrested 85 rebel suspects.

U.S. Questions $1,000,000 Profit On Mentally Ill Over 19 Years

Audit Says Sanitarium Operator Charged $231,413 Personal Expenses, Including Trips Out of Country.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (UP)—Auditors have told Congress a sanitarium operator in Portland, Ore., made about $1,000,000 on Government contracts for the care of mental patients from Alaska in a 19-year period.

The operator, Wayne W. Coe, charged the sanitarium company for $231,413 of his own personal expenses during the period, according to a Comptroller General's audit released yesterday by the House Interior Committee. Included were expenses for trips to Mexico and South Africa, it said.

The audit report charged also that Coe's company failed to give patients who died at the hospital the "decent" burial called for by Government contracts. The Government paid a maximum of $75 for burials.

The report said tax law violations may have been involved in the expense charges. Coe is president and two-thirds owner of the Sanitarium Co. of Portland, which operates Morningstar Hospital. Mentally ill persons committed in Alaska have been cared for in the hospital under Department of the Interior contracts since 1904.

The territory would be authorized to set up its own public mental care program under a bill awaiting final congressional action.

The Comptroller General's audit was ordered after Coe reported a year ago he had made a profit of "a little over 1 per cent" on his capital investment over the 1936-54 period. At the same time, a subcommittee headed by Representative Edith Green (Dem., Oregon), reported dissatisfaction with conditions at the hospital. The audit report pointed out that 98.7 per cent of the patients at the hospital during the period were from Alaska.

In the period, it said, Coe received $1,043,808 from the sanitarium company. Included was $473,500 in salary, $332,437 as his two-thirds share of profits, $231,413 in personal expenses and $458 from sales of sanitarium livestock.

Personal Expenses Listed. The personal expenses, the report said, included the most of a trip "of Mr. and Mrs. Coe to South Africa and Mexico," insurance premiums on Coe and on his separate property and improvements on the Coe residence.

Expenses for an automobile "used exclusively by the Coe family," wages of domestic help at the Coe home, and household expenses "such as clothing, food, dry cleaning, utilities and repairs at the Coe residence and Coe beach property" also were included, the report said.

The report also said the company paid $1908 for "personal purchases by Coe and his wife at a Portland department store during 1954.

The report asserted the hospital staff does not include "or has an inadequate number of employees" in several "important professional positions recommended by authorities on mental health."

It recommended that the Interior Department's office of territories change the present contract "to specify minimum staff requirements and classifications."

IN STATE TAXES, FEES

Revenue Collections Rise
$20,000,000 — Special Funds $30,000,000.

JEFFERSON CITY, July 11
(AP) — Missouri's tax and fee collections went up $50,355,979 in the fiscal year ended June 30, M. E. Morris, director of the State Department of Revenue, reported yesterday.

He said revenue collections for the 1956 fiscal year were up about $20,000,000 and special funds—like motor vehicle taxes and fees and the tax on gasoline—went up a little more than $30,000,000.

The totals for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1955, were $141,804,471 in general revenue and $106,217,783 in special funds.

Comparative figures for the fiscal year just ended were $159,546,258 and $228,234,974.

The new state tax on cigarettes, two cents a package, amounted to $5,086,177 in the six months since it became effective last Jan. 1. It all goes toward support of public schools.

In the latest fiscal year the income tax produced $35,389,808 compared with $27,382,446 the year before.

Collections for auto licenses

this year were $31,378,681 compared with $27,123,312 the year before.

CAIRO, July 11 (AP)—The Egyptian cabinet last night approved steps for the opening of a Russian trade office in Cairo.

The Russian ambassador to Egypt, E. D. Kisselev, told reporters after a meeting with an aid of President Nasser, that Nasser will visit Russia sometime in August.

CALIFORNIA YOUTH SUFFERS SECOND ATTACK OF POLIO

EL MONTE, Calif., July 11 (AP)—Polio, can strike twice, 14-year-old Robert Shipman Jr. has learned.

The boy has been admitted to the Sister Kenny Memorial Hospital for the second time. Since the hospital opened in 1950, three patients have been admitted for the second attack of the disease. Administration authorities say they have no statistics on the ratio of second attacks.

Robert was stricken in 1943, when, within a week, the disease struck three members of his family. His father and a brother, Billy also were hospitalized then.

WEEKS OPPOSES BILL TO LET DEALERS SUE AUTO MAKERS

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks expressed opposition yesterday to a bill which would allow automobile dealers to sue manufacturers in federal court for alleged failure to show good faith in carrying out franchise agreements.

The bill has passed the Senate and is being studied by a House judiciary subcommittee. Weeks wrote the subcommittee that the measure "would raise numerous problems of interpretation and would undoubtedly create confusion in franchise relationships between manufacturers and dealers."

"Rather than solve existing problems," he added, "this legislation would, we feel, create a number of new ones."

Big Decisions Are Stacked Up At White House Like Dishes In Kitchen With Cook Away

President Only Man Who Can Get Government Off Dead Center—Painful, Fog-Bound Groping by Advisers Gets Nowhere in Changing World.

BY JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP

WASHINGTON.

THE American Government these days is a bit like a messy kitchen, with the unwashed dishes piled high in the kitchen sink, waiting for the cook to return. The cook, of course, is Dwight D. Eisenhower. And the dishes are a whole series of basic national policy decisions which are waiting to be made.

To be sure, the Government doesn't look like a messy kitchen. During the President's current illness, as after his heart attack, all seems to be going rather smoothly. Yet this appearance is deceptive. In the American system, only the President can make the really tough decisions. If the President is ill, or operating on a part-time basis, the really tough decisions simply do not get made.

Moreover, the President's two serious illnesses have coincided with basic changes in the world situation. There have been, for example, the upheaval within the Soviet-Communist empire, coupled with the rapid development of the new, adventurous, dangerously flexible Soviet policy.

Two Groups of Thinking. For example, one group in the Government, which includes men like presidential advisers Harold Stassen and William Jackson and chief State Department policy planner Robert Bowie, has generally held that the charges in the Soviet regime are real and meaningful, and that every opportunity of testing Soviet intentions ought to be taken.

A contrary view is held by men like Under Secretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr., and Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks.

The first group has maintained that this country should take the initiative in breaking down the Iron Curtain, that the more contacts with the Soviets the better, and that the gains involved in such contact far overbalance the risks. The second group has wished to maintain an impenetrable iron curtain of American manufacture.

Largely, thanks to William Jackson, the first group scored a partial victory when the President approved a modest "exchange of persons" program. But even this small policy decision took weeks of negotiation and feathery-smoothing. And the basic issue—just how far to go to test Soviet intentions—remains undecided.

BOON SOCIALISTS PROMISE TO END DRAFT IF ELECTED

MUNICH, Germany, July 11 (AP)—West German Socialist leaders promised yesterday to abolish conscription if they win next year's general election.

The national committee of the Social Democrats, the second largest party in the Bonn republic, decided to put a resolution to this effect to the annual party convention now in session.

The Bundestag in Bonn approved compulsory military service last Saturday over Socialist opposition. The first draft is to be called up next spring in the government's move to raise 500,000 men for the North Atlantic Alliance by 1960.

The Socialists have always opposed German membership in that alliance.

Meanwhile, the East German Communist government urged all West German youths "threatened by conscription" to flee to the East.

A statement published by the East German A.D.N. news agency called the Bundestag decision a blow to peace, to reunification of Germany and to democracy.

HEAD OF PERU'S CABINET RESIGNS OVER ELECTIONS

LIMA, July 11 (AP)—Peruvian Cabinet Minister Roque A. Saldaña resigned last night, saying he disapproved of the manner in which the recent presidential elections were conducted. The rest of the Cabinet issued a statement reaffirming loyalty to President Manuel Odría.

The President named Gen. Juan Mendoza, the Education Minister, to head the Cabinet. Mendoza also temporarily takes over the Finance Ministry which Saldaña headed.

In the June 17 elections the Government candidate ran a poor third. His defeat was followed by a crackdown on leaders of the outlawed, leftist Apra (People's) party, Peru's largest political faction which had enjoyed a brief unannounced amnesty before the voting.

Professional Politicians Invariably on Beam In Predicting President's Political Intentions

Didn't Think Second Illness Would Change Decision to Run.

By JAMES RESTON

The New York Times News Service. (Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 11. POLITICIANS are not usually good prophets about the political intentions of a President, but in the case of President Eisenhower, their record is almost perfect.

From the moment his name was first mentioned for the presidency in 1947 until yesterday's announcement by Senator William F. Knowland in Gettysburg that the President was still in the race, the predictions of the professionals have invariably turned out to be accurate, often despite contrary statements and indications by Mr. Eisenhower himself.

"It is my conviction," Gen. Eisenhower wrote to Leonard V. Finder, publisher of the Manchester (N.H.) Union-Leader in 1947, "that the necessary and wise subordination of military to civil power will be best sustained when lifelong professional soldiers, in the absence of some obvious and overriding reason, abstain from seeking high political office."

The professional politicians, Democratic as well as Republican, predicted that the day would come when he would abandon this idea and they were right.

Lodge's Predictions.

On Jan. 6, 1952, Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., then a Senator from Massachusetts, announced that Gen. Eisenhower's name would be entered in the New Hampshire presidential primary election of 1952 and predicted:

"He will not withdraw. He is in the race to the finish."

Gen. Eisenhower responded to this from his post as North Atlantic Treaty commander in Paris: "Senator Lodge was correct . . . in stating that I would not seek nomination to political office. I have frequently and publicly expressed my refusal to do so."

"Under no circumstances will I ask for relief from this assignment in order to seek nomination to political office and I shall not participate in the pre-convention activities of others who may have such an intention with respect to me."

Nevertheless, he did resign from his NATO post. He returned to the United States June 1, 1952, and campaigned actively and aggressively against the late Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio in the pre-convention race. This is precisely what Lodge and the then Governor of New Hampshire, Sherman Adams, said he would do months before he did it.

Intensive Campaign.

In those days at the Brown Palace hotel in Denver and at the Blackstone in Chicago, where reporters saw him frequently, he talked constantly about conducting a limited "high-level" campaign if he won the nomination.

The men around him predicted that he would do no such thing, but would campaign intensively all over the country. This is exactly what he did.

This same pattern was followed in the congressional elections of 1954 and in the period before and after his two illnesses. The Republican politicians said he would seek reelection when he was calling on younger men to come forward and arguing against the doctrine of the indispensable man. They were right again in stating that his heart attack and later his abdominal operation would not change his or their plans.

Mr. Eisenhower's personal statements seemed very much at odds with this optimism. He said in his book, "Crusade in Europe," discussing a four-day illness:

"I learned a lesson I did not thereafter violate; a full measure of health is basic to successful command."

Last Aug. 3, before his heart attack, he told a delegation of Ohio Republicans that they must keep in mind the "erosion" that the Presidency inflicted on a man. He reminded his visitors that he would be 70 at the end of a second term in the White House and noted that no President had reached his seventieth birthday in that office.

Two weeks before his heart attack, he told the Republican chairman in Denver: "We don't believe for a minute that the Republican party is so lacking in inspiration, high quality personnel and leadership that we are dependent on one man."

"Humans," he said, "are frail—and they are mortal. . . . You never pin your flag so tightly to one mast that if a ship sinks you cannot rip it off and nail it to another."

Leonard Hall, the Republican national chairman, came out of that meeting and announced that he was sure that after hearing the President that he would run again. Then came the heart attack.

Hall, Martin on Beam. It was widely assumed on the basis of this trend in the President's public comments that the heart attack would end all thought of a second term, but Hall and Joseph W. Martin of Massachusetts, the Republican leader in the House, made no such assumption. Martin went so far as to warn the reporters that when the President got to Gettysburg for his convalescence, he would soon get tired of it and take another view of continuing in office. He even said—and was ridiculed for it at the time—that the President might be kept in better health in the White House than in retirement. The President himself was repeating precisely the same idea several months later.

During the period in December, when the press of the country was still assuming that the President would not run, Attorney General Herbert Brownell told this reporter that he was sincerely convinced that the reporters were as far out on a limb on this political question as they had been in their predictions that Thomas E. Dewey of New York would win the presidential election of 1948.

"Better climb back," he remarked, and thereafter the press began to hedge its predictions.

Decision Made Long Ago.

Consequently, nobody has taken very seriously the talk that the second illness would lead to any reconsideration. The decision was made in the President's mind long ago, and the method of making the announcement yesterday—through Senator Knowland—was the White House's way of saying that the question of withdrawing was not worthy of consideration or even of any formal White House announcement.

Nevertheless, all this leaves unanswered a number of questions. Why did the President indicate at one of his press conferences after his decision to run that, before the heart attack, he had actually decided to retire?

Why were the politicians so sure when the President himself seemed to be so unsure from Jan. 1 until Feb. 29? What changed his mind?

These questions can only be the subject of speculation, but many observers here believe this: The professional politicians have long experience in watching the reactions of Presidents in the White House. They know that most Presidents at first dislike the job, but gradually come to like it, and in the

Backdoor Aspect to Knowland Announcement for Eisenhower

Press Conference With President's Surgeons Boomeranged—Northern Democrats Asleep on Keynote.

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON.

TUESDAY was a happy July 10 for the Republicans. The propaganda campaign to convince President Eisenhower and the voters that his illness operation was not so bad reached its planned climax in the offhand announcement by Senate majority leader William F. Knowland that, of course, the President would run again.

In their morning newspapers Republicans savored the news that the Democratic convention keynote would be Governor Frank Clement of Tennessee. Clement told reporters at the recent Governors' conference that his state did not have a single segregated school.

The greatest single fear of Democrats in the coming election is that the Negro vote in the pivotal states will desert them on the civil rights issue. What happened at the meeting of the Democratic arrangements committee is that the Northerners were asleep at the switch and the Southerners out-operated them. First, the Southerners managed to tie the vote between Senators Robert S. Kerr and Hubert H. Humphrey, both satisfactory to Adlai Stevenson. Then a compromise was demanded by the South.

Unity Their Object. The Northerners are now explaining that they did it for unity's sake. They also argue that Clement was the first Governor of a Southern state to veto a racial segregation bill. However, Negro leaders regard him with extreme skepticism, a feeling shared by some disinterested students of state government.

That the Eisenhower announcement was coming in some such form as it appeared has been clear for a long time. The one and only press conference permitted with the President's illis surgeons, which was held at Walter Reed hospital almost before he was out of the ether, boomeranged. Friendly newspapers joined in the comment that this was a bit too thick and the jokes about political doctors began to multiply.

Since then, in striking contrast to the situation following the President's heart attack, the President's doctors have refused to talk to reporters. There have been no press conferences, no signed articles for the newspaper syndicates.

Discussion Recalled. Another reason suggests itself for the backdoor aspect of the present announcement. Following his heart attack, the President explained his decision in a nation-wide telecast in which he candidly discussed his illness and frankly said there were certain things no longer possible to him as President or presidential candidate. Among them was an active campaign this fall.

In another telecast to explain his fresh decision, he would be under compulsion to discuss his own understanding of his recent surgery, its causes and possible course.

Also, the President would presumably feel obliged again to say how much he could or could not do in the future. After his second illness, the public might reasonably be expected to listen to that much more carefully than before.

(Copyright, 1956, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

(with the President's approval) to write the history of the Eisenhower years, reported: "For Eisenhower, Gettysburg came close to being five weeks of torment. His morale slumped. His spirits were low."

This is exactly what the politicians predicted would happen. Instead of decreasing his interest in politics the two illnesses had the effect of making him want to hold onto the active life. It is an old story and the details of it, when they finally become known, will be one of the most fascinating chapters in the history of the Presidency.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Pictures of the President

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

So Ike in 1953 was so incensed with his party that he considered splintering it! No one could have foreseen this development.

One short year later, in 1954, he was working in the mid-term congressional elections as no President before him ever worked. The burden of his cry was to elect a Republican Congress, because to elect a Democratic Congress would bring on cold war between the legislative and executive branches. The logical inference was that election of a G.O.P. Congress would bring all sweetness and light.

Recently in a space of seven days the Post-Dispatch regaled its readers with three facets of Ike. One was the Erudite, the indefatigable, omnivorous reader who had drunk so deeply of the Plerian spring that he was all but omniscient.

The second was like the Rugged, whose post-card condition was so superb that he could, if need be, successfully represent the United States in the Olympic golfing events and decathlon.

The third, by the Adolescent Al-sops, was like the Political Genius, the G.O.P. triple-threat quarterback whose adroit moves crushed the opposition and delighted his own party—the one, remember, that he considered splintering.

Ike's great strength is the naive belief that because he commanded the Army under Roosevelt and assisted Truman with NATO he had also embraced the New Deal domestic policies.

Early in the Administration, when the Dixon-Yates backstairs deal, the giveaways, the feather-your-nest policies in general and light, the naive ones became troubled.

The explanation was that Ike did not know; he became like the Hood-winked; in an aura no evil could touch, he spent his time in an ivory tower meditating upon his program.

With the heart attack he became like the Indispensable.

UNBELIEVER.

As to Laclede's Arithmetic

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Laclede Gas Co. claims it costs about $7 to make a riser connection and estimates it costs the company about $1,000,000 a year.

Since Laclede was taking no new gas customers until it announced the addition of 10,000 this year, the sum would appear to be closer to $700,000. Over $900,000 is a lot to explain away on the basis of the figures Laclede has given.

And has Laclede announced its intention to rush to the Missouri Public Service Commission to get relief for the poor customer? Or does it save the customer $1,000,000 in the newspapers and only a mere $70,000 (a drop in the bucket) before the commission?

MRS. STELLA ROGUSKI.

McDonnell's 50-Mile Ban

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In reply to Beatrice Hechler's letter complaining of sonic booms in the Troy, Mo., area, McDonnell Aircraft Corp. reiterates that supersonic flights by our test pilots have been banned within a 50-mile radius of St. Louis.

Our pilots also make every effort to avoid other congested areas such as Jefferson City, Alton, Columbia, Hannibal, Quincy and Springfield, Ill.

The public must expect a continuing increase in supersonic flying. Five other manufacturers besides McDonnell are building supersonic fighters. There are approximately eight air bases in Illinois and Missouri alone that are equipped with aircraft capable of supersonic booms. Added to this traffic are transient cross-country aircraft which are constantly flying over this area.

McDonnell pilots as well as service pilots are under strict regulations to minimize as much as humanly possible inconvenience to the public. But we must perform some supersonic flying. Most of it is at altitudes of 25,000 feet or higher. The armed forces specify the types of flights we must make before delivery.

After delivery, the services then carry out their own flight tests before turning the planes over to pilots of operational squadrons for regular combat duty. These operational groups will necessarily perform an increasing number of supersonic flights.

EDWARD J. REGAN,

For McDonnell Aircraft Corp.

Expediency?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Why does the high-principled Post-Dispatch take such a wishy-washy course of expediency where Soviet Russia and her satellites are concerned? I am of course referring to your editorial the other day, "Responsibility for Poman," wherein you vigorously censured Secretary Dulles for "hailing the Poman revolt."

If it is "inconsistent with Mr. Eisenhower's policy" (and I don't subscribe to your thought that it is) for Secretary Dulles to say things interpreted as meaning the United States supports revolt behind the Iron Curtain—then how can we have an inconsistent in the Post-Dispatch, self-styled protector of civil liberties, et al, in becoming so dismayed over the United States' approval of the would-be revolt of a suppressed people?

Probably 90 per cent of our nation, at least spiritually, supports just such a revolt over tyranny.

Clayton. JOHN O. SHIELDS.

The President and His Program

President Eisenhower has reaffirmed his availability for the Republican nomination for a second term to party congressional leaders assembled at Gettysburg. That is the gist of remarks to the press on behalf of Mr. Eisenhower by Republican Senate Leader Knowland of California.

The popular reaction generally will be one of relief that the President thinks himself well enough to continue in his great office for four more years, beginning next January. After his heart attack last September serious doubts arose as to his probable candidacy and this same question came up again following his recent major abdominal surgery for a continuing case of ileitis.

Democrats as well as Republicans will share this gratification at the President's satisfactory convalescence, as the generous comment of former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson of Illinois typifies. The President, whoever he is, is the President of all the country and when serious illness enters the White House, as it has now done twice in nine months in the case of Mr. Eisenhower, the genuine concern for his health and his personal welfare knows no party bounds.

This news from the President's farm home was foretold last Saturday with the announcement by John Sherman Cooper, United States Ambassador to India, that he had, at the President's strong urging, agreed to run for the Senate from Kentucky. No other interpretation was likely than that Mr. Eisenhower had himself made up his mind to continue in the 1956 race and so felt he could properly prevail on Mr. Cooper to reverse his negative decision of last month.

Senator Knowland, a frequent Administration critic who was significantly perhaps the President's spokesman, said Mr. Eisenhower assured the G.O.P. leaders that he felt in better physical shape than he did on Feb. 29 when he announced he would take the 1956 nomination if his party wanted him, notwithstanding the heart attack.

This assurance as to the President's reviving health will cheer many people, but it will not take out of the campaign the question of Mr. Eisenhower's physical well-being and his handling of the grave responsibilities of his office. Nor will it eliminate the deep misgivings that many voters, including the independents, have concerning a second-term candidacy for Vice President Nixon.

Only this week a movement was launched to sidetrack Mr. Nixon in favor of former Gov. Harold E. Stassen, White House adviser on disarmament. And it has been much reported that Paul G. Hoffman, retired Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Sidney Weinberg and other strong Eisenhower backers have been at work on plans to dump the Vice President as a handicap to the President. Meanwhile the President's program is in enough trouble that he has now listed 15 legislative proposals on which he hopes to see action before Congress adjourns. These proposals are headed by a bill providing what he regards as adequate funds for mutual security, and a bill providing federal aid for school construction.

To this end Mr. Eisenhower asserted his leadership to the extent of telephoning the Democratic chiefs of the two chambers, Speaker Rayburn of the House and Majority Leader Johnson of the Senate, and said he hoped the program would have favorable attention in the next several weeks.

How much, it is reasonable to wonder, did the Republican leaders tell the President about the G.O.P. opposition to him on both school aid and mutual security?

Did Senator Knowland report that the Republican Senators stood against the President, 26 to 21, on the Bridges amendment to cut off all aid to Yugoslavia?

Did former Speaker Martin tell the President that Republican House members voted 148 to 46 for the Powell anti-segregation amendment, which Mr. Eisenhower opposed, to the school bill?

Did he tell him that the Republican House members then switched around and voted 119 to 75 to kill the bill while the Democrats cast a majority for it?

Only if the President knows these facts will he be in a position to exert an informed leadership over his own party in Congress. And here, as in many other situations in the last three and a half years, Mr. Eisenhower has not shown that he was advised of the essential facts.

Just a week ago James Reston, chief of the Washington bureau of The New York Times, summarized the political state of affairs in Washington as follows:

What is needed now is not announcements about who is going to run for the presidency in the fall—that is perfectly clear—but who is going to run the presidency now, and in what direction.

These past three weeks have clearly shown what can happen in the world in a very short period of time, and they have demonstrated to the satisfaction of anybody willing to look at the facts that the presidency does not work well in the absence of the President.

Now that the President has reiterated his availability, the country can expect him to assume more definitely than in the past his leadership of the Republican party as well as the leadership of the United States.

If he does, the first necessity will be for the G.O.P. leaders who visited him in Gettysburg to reverse themselves on some of the most important issues in Congress.

attempt to answer the Tribune with logic may not make a peace that will last, either.

There isn't such a stillness at Appomattox as we had thought.

Fumble and Wild Throw, Both

If there is a wrong diplomatic move to make at this point it is to enter into controversy with Nehru over "neutrality." If there is a wrong play to do, it is in Pakistan. Vice President Nixon managed to commit both errors on a single play when he chose the occasion of a press conference during a four-hour stop in Karachi to scold India's Prime Minister for not joining the Western alliance.

It was a major setback to American-Indian relations when President Eisenhower's illness forced the cancellation of Nehru's visit to Washington. Then the President insisted that Ambassador John Sherman Cooper come home from New Delhi to run for United States Senator in Kentucky. In the delicate situation created by these two events—aggravated by Secretary Dulles' recent preaching against the "immorality" of a neutral outlook—the Vice President would have been wise to keep silent on the whole subject of India and neutrality, especially since he was making a Far Eastern tour that conspicuously omitted New Delhi.

When will people like Vice President Nixon learn that preaching and lecturing and moral posturing are not the way to win friends in Asia? Perhaps the Vice President was not thinking of New Delhi so much as of San Francisco, where he hopes to be renominated in August. But if he was making an election speech in Karachi, he was guilty of even worse judgment.

At his last press conference before his operation, President Eisenhower had some wise words to say about neutrality. Recalling that the United States itself had stayed out of other countries' conflicts for 150 years, he pleaded for an understanding of this attitude when taken by other countries today. "If you are waging peace," he said, "you can't be too particular sometimes about the special attitudes that different countries take."

Though the force of this statement was diminished by a "clarification" later published by the White House, it still stands as a far more perceptive and sympathetic approach to the neutrals than the Nixon-Dulles brand of synthetic righteousness. We hope that the President will find some way to make clear that his view, rather than the Dulles-Nixon one, is official—if indeed it is.

Opportunity in St. Louis County

The council-manager form of local government has won an enthusiastic and especially significant endorsement from the citizens of Council Bluffs, Ia. Six years ago they installed the manager plan by a vote of 4119 to 3112. Just the other day they were given the opportunity to second-guess themselves. In a referendum they retained the plan, 6069 to 3568, a substantial endorsement in any company.

Only three of St. Louis county's 90-odd municipalities have entrusted the day-to-day operation of government to the professional hands of a full-time city manager. They are University City, Webster Groves and Ferguson. Two others—Clayton and Berkeley—have commissions at work framing home rule charters. And it would not be surprising if they too chose the manager plan.

More often than not, though, local government in the county is operated either on a hit-or-miss basis or within an outmoded frame. Kirkwood, for example, a community of almost 30,000 people, is saddled with the inefficient commission form that requires more than the part-time supervision it gets to be successful.

Overland, on the other hand, has recently created a 24-man committee to look into its governmental machinery and plan for future progress, specifically whether freeholders ought to be put to work drafting a home rule charter. Overland is an example worth emulating elsewhere in the county.

Letters to the Editor of the Post-Dispatch

Many of us who work with juveniles professionally feel much the same way as Mayor Tucker. But all of us, including the Mayor, make a sharp distinction between toughs and hoodlums who menace life and property with violence and malicious intent, and those pesky, noisy, restless and disturbing teenagers who can't fit into our established patterns.

Sometimes it is difficult to distinguish between the youngsters in the two groups and often in becoming too "soft" we encourage the worse element, and this small group must not be coddled. None of us and no organization has the answer. Nor do we know the causes. Once in a while an unusual leader with proper space and equipment may solve an acute problem but such leaders are rare. It is increasingly difficult to get young men of this caliber because of low pay and keen competition.

How to punish the tough and hoodlum and not incur the animosity and hatred of the much larger group baffles us all. The treatment for this pernicious group—where so many may rise to good citizenship, or fall to thuggery—concerns all Greater St. Louisans.

And let's not be fooled. A few meetings of "experts" won't settle the matter. This fault lies deep in our social fabric and more than eloquent words are needed. As a matter of fact we have had a torrent of words to date. The Mayor correctly states that the city, schools and churches are responsible. So are scores of United Fund and privately financed agencies. To date, none of us is proud of the record.

J. A. WOLF,
Executive Director, Neighborhood Association.

The responsibility of parents is to give their children not everything that money will provide, but only love and attention. Children thrive and are happy when they are loved and watched over. They are distraught and resentful without it.

It saddens us to see the anguish that some parents are going through now, because their eyes have not been opened to the obvious needs of their children. It is so easy to "give the kids a couple of bucks and let them go have a time, while I drink my beer and watch TV!" But how much easier and how much more fun really to go with them and know where they are and what they are doing. MRS. JANE JOHNSON.

Richmond Heights.

Kids are not "meaner" than grandpaw. He had more freedom! And he brags about it while he is selling at the grandchildren to "Keep off the grass." He played on the lawn with his dogs and cats but the kids today not only cannot have pets, they can't even walk on the grass. They have to play in the streets and alleys.

Pop today is a frustrated mud-pie-maker. He spent his youth on drug store corners whistling at girls (to keep out of grandfather's hobby garden). And mom? Well, you have heard the old adage, "You can easily tell the child whose mother is a good housekeeper—her kids play in other people's yards."

Now that I have taken care of the parents and grandparents, when are "so-called adults" going to get rid of the psychiatrists and psychologists and start acting like "superiors"? How can kids respect such parents?

FORTY-TWO YEAR-OLD KID LOVER AND OLD MAID.

I am a juvenile delinquent. No, I haven't mugged an old man, nor have I beaten a younger man with an expectant wife and two children. I haven't received a ticket for drag racing, nor have I been in any street fights nor crashed any parties. I am a juvenile delinquent because I am a teen-ager.

During the past month the press, radio and television have carried on an extensive campaign against the rise of juvenile delinquency in the St. Louis area. In essence, this campaign has a good end, but it suffers from two serious defects.

First, a majority of the older generation has superimposed the term "juvenile delinquent" over the term "teen-ager." According to the press there has been no significant good accomplished by a person in his teens in the past month. Adults have suddenly come to the conclusion that there is something radically wrong with a person in his teens.

Because a minority of teen-agers is causing trouble, the majority is now labeled juvenile delinquent, and the old saying, "The good must suffer with the bad," has gone far enough.

Second, with all the publicity, not once has the solution to this problem been given. The solution is not a stricter law enforcement by a sorely undermanned police department, nor is it legislative action from Jefferson City; the solution is present in almost every adult's answer when you ask him if he did the same things that the small percentage of teen-agers is doing.

The adult will inevitably and emphatically state, "Why, if I did those things, I would have gotten a good tanning from my parents."

Recent brutalities committed by young adults and/or teen-agers have caused widespread shock and alarm. Certainly delinquency must be curbed. However, publicity on this topic is creating a public fervor condemning teen-agers in general. Such an attitude is unfair, when an overwhelming majority of this city's youth are law-abiding citizens.

A newspaper must print the facts about juvenile delinquency, but front page pictures and headlines, whether sensational or not, seem only to give other maladjusted youngsters an impetus to get in the spotlight.

If newspapers would give attention to more worthy achievements of the city's teen-agers, and would promote more drives to create activities to absorb their idle hours, perhaps excessive publicity to crime would not be necessary.

ROGER WEINBERGER.

Olivette.

Impulse is one thing and yielding to it is another. It is the uncontrolled impulse that is responsible for all crime, all cowardly deeds. The harboring of a low impulse is in itself a crime against one's conscience, one's soul; whatever one would call the link between God and man.

Far be it from me to preach, but there is no denying that one's actions are a reflection of one's self. They are decent or indecent; and what one is, is not dependent upon one's parents or one's associates. FAIR PLAY.

Why is it that any article concerning "teen-age violence" always makes the headlines, but articles concerning the increase of young people who are interested in libraries plus other "worthy" organizations appear on the back pages?

Please! We know now that there is a "great deal" of teen-age trouble. So, let's hear something about the pains taken to get rid of these problems instead of just advertising them. Maybe the advertisement of worthwhile clubs for youngsters would make many teen-agers interested in doing something constructive instead of destructive.

TEEN-AGER.

Could recent incidents in parks be due to the indecent exposure of our daughters? I am a mother of three sons and God pity them today their temptations. Could it be our husbands sold them the beer and our daughters put temptation in their path?

MOTHER OF THREE SONS.

I am the mother of two teen-age girls and a younger boy. The teen-age hoodlums of today are not being made by the tavern owners' lust for money, as has been suggested, but by the parents' desire to have the newest car, house or best TV set on the block.

If parents were as much interested in their children and their activities as to select the 18 "best" was no light task. The editor has five such books to her credit and she knows that new writers enter the field every year.

Simply a Gentleman

THE GENTLEMAN AND THE TIGER: THE AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF GEORGE B. MCCLELLAN, JR. Edited by Harold C. Syrett. (Lippincott, 376 pp., $4.)

George B. McClellan Jr. is remembered today, if he is remembered at all, as the son of a famous father. Yet, in their own way, the younger McClellan's accomplishments were as solid, even though less renowned, as those of the parent whom he regarded with unqualified devotion. To be five times a United States Congressman and twice Democratic mayor of New York, to occupy a Princeton professorial chair for thirty years, and to author four books are not the marks of a man who has idly floated on top of his times. If the publication of this autobiography does nothing else, it should secure for its author a place among the near-famous of a generation not long past.

On the lowest level of interpretation, McClellan's autobiography is a seismograph of his reactions to the processes and personalities which dominated American life from the 1890s to the War that was supposed to end war.

Striding through these pages are Tammany politicians, millionaires, philanthropists, Presidents, legislators, reformers—in short, a kaleidoscope of professions, of well-known saints, rogues and in-betweeners. Yet McClellan is not merely a cataloger. He possessed an uncanny skill for laying bare the inner man or the core of events in a few swift sentences. Seldom do his judgments make any pretense of objectivity but in many readers they may reinforce the conviction that quick flashes of insight are equal in accuracy to several pounds of uninspired evaluation.

McClellan was not given to sustained introspection, but the frame of reference through which he viewed the world conspicuously shapes his writing. From the autobiography emerges a man no less than a commentator. The type either has passed from American life or no longer deems it wise to advertise its attitudes. McClellan's views and values were those of a class which esteemed the unheralded virtues of taste, breeding, good living and noblesse oblige. On the continent his outlook would have entitled him to be called an aristocrat. In America he was simply a gentleman. Consequently, McClellan could never fully identify himself with the age in which he lived. He never became the lackey of great wealth or great poverty; of political corruption or of political reform. From adolescence to death his criteria for judging himself and his contemporaries remained remarkably constant. One of the prices he paid for this constancy was the death of his political career before he had reached the fullness of his powers.

The attractiveness of this book rests not only on the qualities of its author but on a superior job of editing by Harold C. Syrett of Columbia University. Syrett has reduced the manuscript autobiography to readable proportions without fracturing its continuity and resisted the temptation to overwhelm the reader with editorial documentation. The brief introduction manages to make itself indispensable to a full understanding of what follows. Author and editor can be satisfied that they have collaborated with splendid result.

WALTER LIPPMANN

The Leader They Will Not Follow

TO JUDGE by what is happening in Congress to the President's legislative program, he is the unanimous candidate of a party that will not follow him as a leader.

A heavy majority of the Republicans, acting contrary to the President's advice, had just voted for the Powell Amendment which made it impossible to pass the bill to give federal aid to the public schools. But for the Republican defectors, the Democrats could not have gotten Congress to overrule the Administration on the size of the military appropriation, and in effect to pass a vote of no confidence in the President's military judgment. The President's very modest proposals to liberalize international trade are stalled because of Republican opposition. The Foreign Aid Bill, the keystone of Administration foreign policy, is given what "Life" magazine describes as "a furious kicking around." None of this could have happened if the President had a reasonably united support from his own party.

Eisenhower

Yet he has such overwhelming support for his running again that he will probably be renominated by acclamation. The same Republicans who oppose his policies and his measures are a chorus crying out that the future of this country, the future of the world, depend upon his being a candidate.

A Cynical Explanation.

What are we to make of this contrast between his candidacy and his leadership? The obvious explanation is the cynical one, that the dissenting Republicans do not believe in Eisenhower's policies but that they need him to win the election for them.

The relations between the President and his party in Congress are remarkable. His enormous popularity and prestige have made him, as he was far from being in 1952, the undisputed choice of the party for President.

Yet he is as little able today as when he took office to unite and lead his party in support of his policies.

The issues on which the party will not unite behind him are not small issues. They are crucial and major issues of foreign policy, defense, education. What takes some explaining is how, though he and they are divided in Congress, they can be united for the Presidential election.

No Rewards, No Penalties.

This is possible because in Gen. Eisenhower's conception of the American Government, the President is not the leader of the system who makes it work but the officer who presides over the Executive branch. He exhorts, he preaches, he proposes measures, he pleads for them. But he does not lead the Congress.

In his book there are no rewards for men, like Senator Wiley, who take risks in order to follow him. There are no penalties for those who, like Senator Knowland, so often oppose him. Yet in order to lead a party it is necessary not only to talk but also to use a discipline of rewards and penalties. It is Gen. Eisenhower's unwillingness to insist upon party discipline, his virtual neutrality between those who oppose him and those who support him, that account for his inability to lead Congress.

His personal popularity, which is his party's prime asset, is freely available to all Republicans without any reciprocal obligation on their part. So the Republicans opposed to Eisenhower want him for President, being under no obligation to follow him.

Executive Must Lead.

The American political system has never worked well when the President is passive and unable to give a strong lead to Congress. For the American Congress is like other legislative bodies as, for example, the French National Assembly.

It is almost incapable of dealing successfully with big questions except under the leadership, which includes the discipline, of the Executive. On measures where the national interest is more than the net sum of opposing local interests, the Executive, that is the President, must be the active political force.

He cannot drop the big measures into the legislative assembly, making an occasional public comment and doing some private lobbying, but on the whole standing aside in an attitude of respectful neutrality.

How the Mill Works.

For the big measures are almost certain to be ground to bits by Congressmen responding to local pressures from their constituents. These measures can be saved and carried through the Legislature only if the Representatives can feel behind them, and can point to, a national pressure which is stronger than the local pressures.

Except when there is an upheaval of popular sentiment, only the President can generate the national pressure. The Kelley Bill to give federal aid to the public schools is a case in point. The national interest, as the President rightly says, called for the passage of this bill. It was known to all that there was no chance of passing it through the Senate as against a Southern filibuster. If the bill contained the Powell Amendment, denying federal funds to states resisting integration.

National Need Defeated.

But a heavy majority of the Republicans in the House, joined by a third of the Democrats from the North, nevertheless voted to insert the Powell Amendment.

Thus federal aid to education was sacrificed by some 148 Republicans and some 77 Democrats who believed they were appealing to the Negro voters by saving it, called for the passage of this bill. It was known to all that there was no chance of passing it through the Senate as against a Southern filibuster. If the bill contained the Powell Amendment, denying federal funds to states resisting integration.

WRITER ATTACKS PRESSURE GROUPS AS CENSORS IN U.S.

The New York Times News Service, Copyright, 1956, by The New York Times Co.

LONDON, July 11—Censorship by pressure groups in the United States is "a very real and serious menace," Elmer Rice, the American playwright, told the opening literary session of the P.E.N. Club congress here yesterday.

This international association of writers is holding its twenty-eighth congress. Seven hundred and fifty delegates were present from all over the free world, plus a few members from behind the Iron Curtain.

Speakers included J. B. Priestley and Rosamond Lehman, English novelists, and Angus Wilson, English author and critic.

Rice told his listeners that in the United States, from the official angle, there is complete freedom of expression and that official censorship of films is on the way out. But now, he said, there is "an entirely new and dangerous and insidious for most censorship." It comes from pressure groups inside and outside of the huge, monopolistic industries that own the radio, television and film media. These groups are professional or political or religious, he continued, and while they are always very influential, hence they influence the writer's work.

Bids on the job from six firms were opened at a meeting last night and the low bid of $581,000 was submitted by Rallo Contracting Co., Inc., 5000 Kemper Park. An architect's estimate of the cost was between $300,000 and $350,000.

Funds for construction of a building and pool would come from a $1,000,000 school bond issue authorized by University City voters in 1953.

Boyer, Musial, Mays, Antonelli Share Hero Role in Star Contest

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Staff

WASHINGTON, July 11—Without promising two home runs a game, a no-hitter every Sunday or a return to the old-fashioned five-cent scoreboard, the National League has struck a blow for the common man.

Appropriately in this cosmopolitan community, the nation's capital, the Nationals yesterday vindicated the voice of the fan, a clarion cry that for a time threatened to be drowned out by the caterwaul of criticism, the razberries of ridicule.

Now, however, Ford Frick, a commissioner who yet might rise to the stature required by one of the country's most respected posts, is certain to keep control of the annual All-Star Game in the hands of baseball's followers, the freight-paying customers close up and the cheer-leading followers far away. The commissioner now can follow the dictates of his basic good conscience and insist that the fans are right.

Only if you listened to enough pressbox pundits or read their jeering opinions, could you understand the sardonic delight the guessers would have taken from a victory at Griffith Stadium for the favored American League. The choice of the junior circuit really hadn't made sense in view of the obvious transfer of power to the older league in recent years, but it's apparent now even the cold calculating professional handicappers fell for the hogwash, too, the hogwash that the fans hadn't given bald Walter Alston a lineup with which the quiet, efficient Brooklyn manager could win.

Cart Before the Horse.
What they had given him actually was not an out-of-balance or bad ball club, but, as suggested here before, one in which the cart might have been in front of the horse. They gave him almost his best defensive lineup, not his No. 1 attacking team.

Fans Boo Removal of The Man Following Collision With Boyer
Stan the Man gave the game one of its most dramatic moments when he unloaded a record-breaking fifth "dream game" homer just a half-inning after Ted Williams, the Red Sox slugger, had tied Musial's previous mark with a towering circuit smash.

"That Williams," said Musial afterward, chuckling, "is a tough one to stay ahead of, all right. My only chance was that we're both getting old."

Musial escaped serious injury in the eighth inning when, playing left field after having opened in right, the high-saluted handyman ranged in for a short fly hit by Williams and dove to make a catch and avoid a collision with Ken Boyer, the Cardinals' third baseman who actually was the game's most spectacular performer.

As Musial went down, one of Boyer's spiked shoes accidentally kicked him in his left thigh, creating a momentary muscular cramp. The Man was prepared to continue, but Alston and Fred Hutchinson, hurrying out to make sure the 35-year-old star hasn't badly injured, lifted him as a precaution. Complimenting to Musial, some members of the 28,843 capacity crowd actually protested his removal.

Grinning afterward, Stan produced a telegram from St. Louis, a wire in which Red Schoendienst and wife Mary had congratulated him on his selection as Player-of-the-Decade in a Sporting News poll. Schoendienst was home to watch the opening of a Cardinal-Giant series tomorrow night at Busch Stadium.

"Too bad Red missed this one (the all-star game), but I guess he got a kick out of it on TV," Musial said, nodding toward Boyer and adding:

"Wonder if Red or the camera could keep up with the kid?"

Ken No Friend of Kuehn.
The handsome husky Boyer, who had been slumping in league play, gave a brilliant exhibition. At bat he collected three of the Nationals' 11 hits.

All-Star Quotes

WALT ALSTON: "Mays' pinch homer was the turning point. It gave us a comfortable lead and put them on the defensive. After that it was just a matter of getting good pitching from everybody. In addition to Mays' hit, I'd say Boyer's fine play at third and the strong pitching were the key factors."

CASEY STENGEL: "That third base fellow (Boyer) cut us out of a rally or two. Very good boy, very good. . . . Pitching beat us—theirs and ours."

KEN BOYER: discussing his diving catch of Harvey Kuenn's liner: "I was playing in quite a bit because I was half-looking for a bunt. So I was sort of lucky to grab the ball. . . . I'd heard so much about Herb Kuenn I was looking forward to hitting against him. I never got the chance, though."

Matching his first-inning effort, BOYER is shown here diving to his right to cut off Kuenn's hot smash toward third base in the fifth inning. Ken sprawled full length but quickly got to his feet and threw out the runner at first.

How Redlegs Fared in All-Star Game

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—Here's how the heavy contingent of Cincinnati Redlegs fared at the bat in the All-Star Game:

Johnny Temple—4 at bats, 2 hits (both singles), 1 run batted in.

Frank Robinson—2 at bats, no hits.

Gus Bell—1 at bat, no hits.

Ted Klusowski—2 at bats, 2 hits (both doubles), 1 run batted in.

Ed Bailey—3 at bats, no hits.

Roy McMillan—3 at bats, 2 hits.

Totals—15 at bats, 6 hits, batting average—400, 2 runs batted in.

handed glove stop that resulted in an inning-ending forceout in the fourth, walked once and singled twice. One of his base hits came a safe punt and the fiery little second baseman also stole a base. The bespectacled McMillan, milder-mannered and yet far from placid on the field, drew a base on balls, delivered two singles and just continued to be the steadiest, farthest-cruising shortstop of his day. Klusowski walloped two doubles.

Moreover, one of big Klu's two-base blows launched a scoring inning and the other capped a frame in which the Nationals tallied. Temple drove in a run and set up one and McMillan figured in two N.L. runs. And if they keep up those antics, they'll soon have every ball club wearing those silk football-style uniforms with the vest shirts, form-fitting fronts and football-type elastic pants.

The Redlegs, batting 400, and friends did their damage to four of six pitchers used by Casey Stengel, a great manager except every year one day in mid-July when he can't win for losing. The Old Perfesser, who now has been beaten five of six times as pilot of American League All-Stars, might have lost more than just a ball game this time.

X-rays were to be taken today to determine whether Yogi Berra, the American League's "Most Valuable Player" and long regarded as key man of the Yankees, suffered a broken little and fourth finger on his

12 All-Stars Benchwarmers

WASHINGTON, July 11 (UPI)—That was a pretty good crop of All-Stars who sat on the bench.

There were four American League and eight National League players on the 25-man squads who didn't see action in yesterday's classic.

Included in the National League array were Bob Roberts of the Phillies who had been the starter in five of the last six All-Star games, Brooks Lawrence, the righthanded sensation of the Redlegs with a 12-0 mark, Clem Labine, relief ace of the Brooklyn Dodgers, and Lefty Joe Nuxhall of the Reds, hailed as the fastest southpaw in the League.

The others who didn't get in were shortstop Ernie Banks of the Cubs, second baseman Junior Gilliam of the Dodgers, home run-slugging third baseman Ed Matthews of the Braves, and Catcher Stan Lopata of the Phils.

The American League couldn't find a spot for Charley Maxwell of Detroit, whose .361 average is second highest in the majors, Gil McDougald, the Yankee shortstop, Phil Masi, Johnny Kucks of the Yankees with an 11-4 mark and tall Frank Sullivan of the Red Sox at 8-3.

quickly ran into trouble in the home sixth. Nelson Fox singled and Williams walloped a "2-1" delivery for his homer. When Mickey Mantle interrupted his three strikeouts with a line drive into the left field seats, Alston brought in Antonelli.

The choice seemed as shaky as the dwindling National League advantage when Sherm Ladd, a single play, between in succession, putting the potential tying runs on base, but Kansas City's Vic Power, batting for Vernon, flied out and George Kell hit to McMillan for a sure fly for his homer. Between them McMillan and Temple hadn't had an error in more than 50 games, said proud Gabe Paul, Cincinnati general manager.

Antonelli, taking charge, allowed only two singles thereafter and the Nationals increased their lead. Musial, tying into Brewer's first pitch in the seventh, lined an outside fast ball into the left-center field stands. After Mays drove a two-out walk, Wonderful Willie was in motion as Klusowski doubled into right field corner, and Hutchinson, coaching third, waved the Giant swiftie home.

The National League was home, too, home free in the land of the brave after striking that blow for the common man, the fans who, as Tebbetts put it, "gave us a terrific defensive club with 100 extra home runs on the bench if we needed 'em."

Turnesa and Partner Win in Golf Tourney
ARMONK, N.Y., July 11 (UPI)—Stroking a birdie each on the eighteenth hole of the Tamarack course gave Willie Turnesa and Frank Malara Jr. of Knollwood, Elmsford, N.Y., the team honor in the fourth annual golf championship with a 36-hole aggregate of 292.

For the 36 holes Turnesa turned in a one under par 70 and 73 for a total of 143 while his partner shot 70-79-149. On the eighteenth hole Turnesa dropped a 65-foot putt for his birdie and was followed with a 15-footer by his partner.

Meanwhile at nearby Whipoorwill, where the other half of the field was playing, Mike Matty and Tony Cisco of Stonybrook, L.I., were finishing strong in a vain attempt to overcome the 11-stroke lead they had dropped to the Knollwood pair the day before.

Youngberg Is Winner.
ROCKFORD, Ill., July 11 (AP)—Dick Youngberg of Bloomington won the Illinois Junior Chamber of Commerce golf tournament with a 75-76-151.

Youngberg and three others will represent Illinois in the national tournament at Fargo, N.D., late in August.

The three other qualifiers were Bill Dorman, Freeport, 76-76-151; Ed Menke, Waukegan, 75-78-153, and Larry Walden, Peoria, 76-80-156.

Belleville Routs Edwardsville in Legion Opener

Belleville defeated Edwardsville, 14 to 1, in the opener of a three-game American Legion junior baseball playoff on the losers' field. It was Edwardsville's first loss this season, after eight victories.

The series will shift to Belleville for a 6 p.m. game today, and a victory by Belleville would end it. Should Edwardsville win, a third game will be played tomorrow night.

The winner of this series will compete with Effingham, Metropolis, and Murphysboro in a weekend elimination at Brees.

Thomans Whip Stockhams, 6-3; All Winners' Runs Unearned

By John J. Archibald

It looks like once you get out of the county, you're in the clear as far as American Legion Junior baseball goes. Thomans-Boothe Post, which was beaten three times out of nine in county league play last season and then went on to win the state championship, had even more of a struggle in the suburbs this year, yet last night the Thomans took a big step toward more outstate competition.

In the opener of a best-of-three series the Thomans whipped previously unbeaten Stockham Post, 6 to 2.

Well over 1000 spectators were in the stands at newly lighted Fairground Park Diamond No. 1 as the city champion Stockham team had a recurrence of its playoff allergy—an ailment that has caused the perennially powerful club to lose five consecutive post-season games over the past three seasons. None of Thomans-Boothe's six runs was earned.

The series continues tonight at Ballwin, Mo., with an 8:30 game.

In the fourth inning, after Stockham had taken a 1-0 lead in the third, three errors and two hits gave the Thomans a 3-to-1 edge.

They doubled their run total in the sixth when a rally that began after two were out failed to end with a strikeout. Thomans' catcher Jerry Marling got the third of his four hits, and Don Frey followed with another single. Stockham Pitcher Bob Miller then fanned Ron Lawson for what should have been the third out, but the ball got away. Marling scored and there were runners on first and third. After Lawson stole second, Pitcher Fred Helmering singled in two more runs.

Helmering, who was a relief hurler on last year's championship team, had a curve ball that limited Stockham to seven hits. The only extra base blow off Helmering came in the sixth when Al Schuler tripled to score Jerry Nauert, but Schuler was tagged out at home when he attempted to go all the way around.

Coach Bill Schaeffer's Thomans-Boothe team now needs to win just one of the remaining two games in order to qualify for the four-team zone tournament at Mexico on July 20, 21 and 22. The Thomans will be on familiar grounds and under familiar lights at Ballwin, where

S. Cal., U.C.L.A. Join Attempt To Dump Bans

LOS ANGELES, July 11 (AP)—Southern California and U.C.L.A. have joined forces aimed at suspending athletic eligibility bans imposed by the Pacific Coast Conference and at drafting a new athletic purity code.

Dr. Fred C. Fagg, president of the University of Southern California, started the move yesterday in a sharply worded telegram to Dr. Robert Gordon Sproul, chairman of the Presidents' Council of the P.C.C. He suggested that the presidents meet within two weeks and agree to suspend all pending bans against athletes. He proposed that the presidents draft a new code governing athletic scholarships and that punishment for past violations be patterned from the new code.

Shortly after Dr. Fagg's telegram was made public, Dr. Raymond B. Allen, U.C.L.A. chancellor who is answerable to President Sproul, issued this brief statement: "I fully endorse and strongly concur in the sentiment expressed in President Fagg's telegram."

Faculty representatives have imposed fines and athletic eligibility bans against Southern California, U.C.L.A. and Washington. U.C.L.A. was banned from playing in the Rose Bowl football game for three years.

and Southern California and Washington for two years. Dr. Fagg told Dr. Sproul he believes that "Every friend of higher education will join me in demanding that we clarify this situation without delay, and to do less than our utmost at this time will do irreparable injury to the athletes who represent us and irreparable injury also to every institutional member of the Pacific Coast Conference."

Dr. Fagg said he believes the faculty representatives' interpretation of the presidents' directive of June 18 was in error, but he did not elaborate. The directive urged that penalties be assessed before Sept. 1 and that all cases and penalties be reviewed at one time "to be certain there is fully equitable treatment between and among cases." Each school was directed to review its own situation and possible changes in the rules governing student aid. The results, the directive said, then would be reviewed by the presidents at another formal meeting.

Fiorito, Illinois Grid Player, Is Ineligible

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., July 11 (AP)—Pete Fiorito of Forest Park, Ill., a top left guard candidate, has been ruled scholastically ineligible for football at the University of Illinois, it was learned yesterday.

The 220-pounder played in three games as a sophomore last year before a knee injury shelved him for the season. After a knee operation he returned to spring drills.

Athletics Buy Burnette From Denver Bears

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 11 (UP)—The Kansas City Athletics, sunk in the American League cellar due in a large part to lack of pitching, today announced purchase of hurler Wally Burnette from the Denver Bears of the American Association, and two other player changes.

The A's sold left-hander Tom Lasorda, who has a 0-4 mark, to Denver and called up outfielder Al Pillarek from Columbus of the International League. Last night they announced that infielder Rance Pless had been optioned to Richmond of the International League.

Lasorda, used as a reliever, pitched 46 innings in 17 games for the A's and posted an earned run average of 5.28.

Burnette, who has a 7-6 record, had lost four straight games for Denver before breaking a four-game losing streak by downing Indianapolis 13-2 on June 28.

Pillarek, who bats and throws left, was purchased by the A's from the New York Yankees last October. At present he is batting .331 for Columbus, third in the International League. He has slammed 16 home runs and has 68 RBIs. He was with Birmingham of the Southern Association last year.

Pless, the American Association batting champion and most valuable player last year, was hitting only .262 for the A's. He hit .337 to lead Minneapolis to the association crown last season. The A's purchased him during the world series last fall.

Lambert, St. Louis Player, Scores Upset In Western Net Play

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 11 (UP)—Top-seeded Vic Seixas of Philadelphia made his Western Amateur Tennis Tourney debut yesterday by eliminating Maxwell Brown of Louisville, 6-3, 6-2, at the Woodstock courts. The only upset was turned in by Kingman Lambert, St. Louis, who drubbed Josquin Reyes, Southern California and Mexico City, 6-3, 6-1. Reyes up-ended fifth-seeded Allen Morris of Atlanta Monday.

Defending champion Bernard (Tuli) Barten, San Angelo, Tex., seeded second, and Eddie Moylan, Trenton, N.J., and Sammy Giamalva, Houston, also advanced with ease.

Barten, seeking his third Western singles championship, whipped Jack Frost, Monterey, Calif., 6-3, 6-1. Moylan ousted Clyde Akard, Indianapolis, 6-2, 6-4, and Giamalva blasted John Hollet, Indianapolis, 6-1, 6-1.

N.C.A.A. titlist Alex Olmedo of Southern California coasted past Sandy Wiener, Grosse Pointe, Mich., 6-1, 6-2.

Lightburn vs. Zulueta.

NEW YORK, July 11 (INS)—Lightweights Ludwig Lightburn of British Honduras and Orlando Zulueta of Cuba will meet in Friday's 10-round main event at Madison Square Garden. The International Boxing Club announced yesterday that the two Latin-American boxers would meet in a bout replacing the scheduled Rocky Castellani-Joe Giambra middleweight fight, which has been shifted to Aug. 3 because Giambra has an injured left hand.

Babby's Boy Is Disqualified At Fairmount

The Red Diamond Stables' Babby's Boy, ridden by Jake Colclasure, finished a length ahead of Flitting Rod in the one mile and one-sixteenth eighth race at Fairmount last night, but was disqualified and placed third.

The stewards ruled that Babby's Boy interfered with Indiana VI in the stretch drive and as a result, Flitting Rod, which had outfinished Indiana VI, was placed first, with Indiana VI second and Babby's Boy third.

It was the second disqualification in as many nights at the Collinsville track.

The previous night, Smart Hussy, with Kenny Griffith up, was disqualified for interfering with Patty Berg. As a result, Griffith has been suspended for 10 days.

Griffith last night rode Eternal Frolic to victory in the feature race. A foul lodged by E. E. Young on Bright Imp, was disallowed.

A crowd of 4852 wagered $217,806. The daily double on Miss Jude and Ladywood paid $59.20 for $2. In other railings by the stewards, Trainer E. Wortman was fined $25 for failure to sign the saliva slip for Dude's Dream, winner of Monday's ninth race. Jockey Carl Dalgren, now suspended, will be eligible to ride July 12. Jockey Harrell Bolin's suspension will end July 13 as will that of L. Lopez.

STEEL INDUSTRY, USW TO RESUME CONTRACT TALKS

Meet Tomorrow in Pittsburgh — Executive Group Confers With Mediator.

WASHINGTON, July 11 (UP)—Steel industry executives agreed today to resume talks with union leaders tomorrow in an effort to settle the steel strike.

Agreement came at a meeting of four steel company executives with Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.

The industry and union representatives will reopen their stalemated negotiations tomorrow afternoon at Pittsburgh.

Finnegan said it has not been decided whether he and other Government officials will take part.

John A. Stephens, United States Steel vice president and leader of the industry negotiators, told reporters "We have never had any reluctance to meet with the union."

Asked about the outlook for settlement of the 11-day-old strike, Stephens said he is "hopeful that some of these days the union will recognize the wonderful offer that's been made, and accept it."

Finnegan said nothing he has heard in separate talks with union and industry leaders yesterday and today has changed his feeling that "this is still an extremely serious situation."

He told reporters he had assured the union men yesterday a solution would be worked out only by bargaining and it would "not be imposed by the Government," which he said has "no magic wand" to break the deadlock but would help in whatever way it could.

David J. McDonald, union president, said the union appreciated Finnegan's assurance the Government would not try to force a solution.

He said the union is "ready and willing to enter into collective bargaining" although the strike was "forced" by the steel industry.

"If the steel industry wants to make an agreement it can do it," McDonald said. "So far it has shown no evidence of any desire to do so."

Contract Dispute. United Steelworkers called out 650,000 members on strike after the failure of negotiations for a new contract to replace one expiring July 1. In dispute

The union rejected a company offer of a 52-month contract. Management said it provided a raise of 17½ cents an hour the first year. The union, representing workers who averaged $2.46 an hour before the strike began, said the proposed first-year increase actually amounted to only 14 cents and the contract offer was "too little and too long."

The union has not disclosed what wages or contract length it seeks.

Economic effects of the strike continued to spread as some 20,000 soft coal miners wound up annual 10-day vacations and joined the list of idle workers. They work in mines owned by the steel industry. Thousands are unemployed in other allied industries.

STALIN PUT TOP SOVIET PHYSICIST UNDER ARREST

NEW YORK, July 11—Dr. Peter L. Kapitza, leading Soviet nuclear physicist, was held under house arrest during the last seven years of the Stalin regime, according to United States scientists returning from Moscow.

Dr. Kapitza was deprived of the use of laboratories that had been specially constructed in Moscow for his use. He was also removed from his post as director of the Institute for Physical Problems.

The actions against Kapitza were understood to have been carried out at the orders of Stalin. According to the United States scientists, Kapitza was restricted after he had refused to devote his talents to nuclear weapons development.

Kapitza, it was said, took the position that as a scientist he must be the judge of the directions that his research should follow.

One of the first acts of the post-Stalin government was to release Kapitza from restrictions and restore him to his former post as director of the Institute for Physical Problems.

VIENNA, July 11 (AP)—The official Hungarian church paper Magyar Kurir was quoted yesterday as disclosing the death of a co-defendant of Cardinal Mindszenty.

The Vienna Catholic news agency Kath-Press quoted the account that reported the death of Prof. Gyula Baranyai only a few months after his release from jail. Baranyai had been convicted of "conspiring to overthrow the Hungarian government." He died in a home for aged priests near Budapest of a heart attack, the account said.

Baranyai had been sentenced to 15 years in jail in the trial of Cardinal Mindszenty, head of the Roman Catholic Church in Hungary.

CORN, OATS AND RYE RECORD GOOD GAINS

Price Trends Reflect Government's Report on Grain Crops.

CHICAGO, July 11 (AP)—Feed grains and rye advanced on the Board of Trade today in response to the Agriculture Department's July 1 crop report. Oats banged out new seasonal highs, as did March rye. The oats estimate was reduced sharply from a month ago while rye was under last year's production. Corn also scored a good upturn.

Wheat and soybeans were somewhat erratic although selling above the previous close most of the day. The wheat forecast was raised slightly from a month ago. A very large soybean planted acreage was disclosed. Wheat closed lower, soybeans higher.

RECORD BUILDING MARTIN FILES DATE REPORTED AS TOP SECRET, IN LAST 6 MONTHS PENTAGON SAYS

Government Agencies No Plan to Declassify List Continued Papers Relating to Growth of Economy Stand on Russia At-
So Far This Year.

The New York Times News Service.
(Copyright, 1956, by New York Times Co.)

WASHINGTON, July 11—A picture of a continuing expansion of the economy was presented in several government reports yesterday. The official summaries, dealing with construction, earnings and retail trade dealt with conditions existing before the steel strike, which started July 1, put a crimp in general activity.

A joint survey by the departments of Labor and Commerce reported record levels of construction in the first six months of this year. According to the study, construction activity achieved the $20,000,000,000 mark. The figure represented an increase of 2 per cent compared with the previous record set in the first half of last year, and the highest total ever reached in any six months.

The Securities and Exchange Commission in a quarterly survey of financial reports of manufacturing concerns, disclosed that for the first three months of this year earnings were higher than for any first quarter in history.

Profits before taxes were $7,400,000,000 in the first quarter, compared with $6,500,000,000 in the first three months of 1955. However, the first quarter earnings this year were $200,000,000 below the levels reached in the closing three months of 1955.

The report added that earnings after taxes, in the first three months of this year were 15 per cent higher than in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Sales in the first quarter, the SEC said, were estimated at $17,900,000,000, a decline of only 2 per cent from the previous quarter and a gain of 1 per cent compared with the first three months of 1955.

Retail Sales Gain.
Reporting on June retail sales, the Commerce Department said that the total volume of $16,600,000,000 last month was unchanged from May levels but represented a gain of 4 per cent compared with June of 1955.

A report covering May activity by wholesalers showed that sales in that month totaled $10,700,000,000, a gain of 3 per cent compared with April.

Inventories of all wholesalers were estimated at $12,500,000,000 at the close of May. On a seasonally adjusted basis it was added, stocks were up very slightly from April.

The report on construction showed that new construction of all types put in place in June rose seasonally to a total of four billion dollars, a gain of 8 per cent compared with May.

Practically all types of new construction participated in the May to June rise, the report said, although outlays for new houses and apartments continued to lag.

127 COLLISIONS OF PLANES IN AIR,
1948 THROUGH 1955

WASHINGTON, July 11 (AP)—William B. Davis, Civil Aeronautics Administration director of aviation safety, said today there were 127 midair collisions in this country from 1948 through 1955.

Davis testified before a House Government Operations subcommittee reviewing the federal aviation program.

He said 60 of the 127 accidents resulted in fatalities. He did not have immediately available the total number of deaths.

Davis said of the 127 collisions, 96 were between privately-owned planes, 16 between military aircraft and military planes, two between military and military planes and two between air carriers.

These totals did not include the accident that killed 128 last week in the Grand Canyon.

Davis told the committee that the Civil Aeronautics Board to investigate the standard for pilot testing and the frequency of checks since 1949 with no results.

BRIDE, 17, SAVES HUSBAND WHEN CLOTHES CATCH FIRE

GRAND PRAIRIE, Tex., July 11 (AP)—A 17-year-old bride of four weeks was credited with saving the life of her husband when his clothing caught fire last night.

Ernest LeRoy Strawn, 19, a construction worker, was wearing asphalt from his clothes when gasoline when the flame from a nearby water heater ignited the fumes.

"I looked for a towel or sheet to wrap around him and couldn't find one, Mrs. Strawn said, 'so I wrapped my arms around him and pulled him against me. That smothered most of the fire. Then he rolled up in a bedspread.'"

Hospital attendants said Strawn was in a serious condition. Mrs. Strawn was treated for burns on her arms and a foot. Their two-room home was destroyed by the fire.

Cambodia Prince in Prague.
VIENNA, July 11 (AP)—Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia arrived in Czechoslovakia today from Moscow for an official visit, the Prague radio reported.

WASHINGTON, July 11—A Defense Department spokesman told house investigators yesterday that he knew of no plan to declassify any of the papers relating to Gen. Douglas MacArthur's position on bringing the Soviet Union into the war against Japan in the closing months of World War II.

Robert Tripp Ross, assistant secretary of defense, was questioned on the long-standing MacArthur controversy as the House Government Information subcommittee held its second day of hearing on Pentagon information policies. The subcommittee is studying all government departments and agencies.

Ross told Representative John E. Moss, subcommittee chairman, that he has the authority "acting for the Secretary of Defense" to declassify the MacArthur papers. But he said he had no opinion as to when, if ever, this might be done.

Paraphrased excerpts from the Pacific command's papers were released by the Defense Department in October, 1955, after an earlier controversy over his views which broke at the time of the release of the Yalta conference papers in March, 1955. At that time, MacArthur said his views had not been sought at Yalta, but that if they had he "would most emphatically have recommended against bringing the Soviet Union into the Pacific war at that late date."

The Defense Department report of October 19, 1955, disclosed that on June 18, 1945, after the Yalta conference but prior to the Potsdam conference, Gen. MacArthur expressed the view that the "hazard" and casualties of an invasion of the Japanese homeland would be greatly lessened "if Russia first struck at Japan from Siberia."

Ross placed on the Department of the Army responsibility for tightening restrictions on the MacArthur papers after the Yalta controversy broke. The papers, included in documents relating to four Pacific war areas, were declassified in November, 1953, but then were reclassified in April, 1955. Reports who asked to see them were told by the Army that their release would not be "constructive contribution" to the national security.

Army's Contention.
The Army's contention, he said, was that war plans and combat operations were closed. Subcommittee members pointed out that the plans were for World War II.

The subcommittee also placed in its record a memorandum from Dr. R. A. Winton, a Defense Department official historian, to the effect that there are at least 100,000 file cabinets of classified material on World War II that may never be declassified.

Dr. Winton said it was "mechanically impossible" to declassify the material, since he had neither time, staff nor money to do the job.

SPAIN UPHOLDS 6-YEAR TERM FOR INSULTING REMARK

MADRID, Spain, July 11 (UP)—The Spanish Supreme Court today upheld a six-year term for an American pilot for insulting remarks against Spain.

Whitney was tried in a lower court on June 7 and sentenced. Whitney was accused of making offensive remarks against Spain after an automobile accident in Madrid. Such statements are considered a serious crime in this country.

In his appeal, Whitney's attorney contended that the marks were made in the heat of the moment and that he loved this nation.

RICHMOND HEIGHTS ENTERS WATER RATE INCREASE CASE

Richmond Heights today asked permission to intervene in the rate increase case filed by the St. Louis County Water Co. in which hearings will begin next Monday before the Public Service Commission in Jefferson City.

The Richmond Heights application maintained an adequate audit of the company has not been made since 1931 or 1932. It asked the commission to investigate the company's financial condition and appraise its property.

The company, in a petition filed last Nov. 1, asked for "just and reasonable" rates without setting a specific amount of increase. The company contended its expenses have increased out of proportion to its growth in business.

ORGANIST ALL SET FOR HARD GRIND OF BOTH CONVENTIONS

CHICAGO, July 11 (UP)—Bill McMain, all set for music's most grueling grind. McMain is the official organist for both the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

He had the distinction in 1952 of playing via television and radio to the largest audience any musician has ever enjoyed.

McMain played 2000 numbers in 200 hours at the International Amphitheater during the two weeks of the 1952 conventions. This year he'll play for the Democrats in Chicago, then fly to San Francisco for the G.O.P. meeting.

"I'm impartial," he said. "I play just as loud for the Democrats as I do for the Republicans."

McMain has contributed some bits to political history. In 1952 while the powers-that-be were masterminding strategy in smoke-filled rooms, he broke out with "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

Unwittingly, he played "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" while firemen were dousing a blaze on the amphitheater roof.

And when Senator Margaret Chase Smith finished a speech, he burst forth with "Oh, You Beautiful Doll." The audience roared but all Bill got from the Senator was an icy stare.

Survivors huddled amid salvaged possessions at Santorini, on the Greek island of Thera, after earthquake wrecked the cliff-side village Monday. More than 50 persons were killed when quakes struck the Aegean Islands, most of the casualties occurring on Thera, hardest hit island in the group. A United States Sixth Fleet destroyer steamed into Santorini Bay to stand by "in case it is needed," but Greece has declined offers of assistance from this country and Britain.

ORGANIST ALL SET FOR HARD GRIND OF BOTH CONVENTIONS

CHICAGO, July 11 (UP)—Bill McMains is all set for music's most grueling grind. McMains is the official organist for both the Democratic and Republican national conventions.

He had the distinction in 1952 of playing via television and radio to the largest audience any musician has ever enjoyed.

McMains played 2000 numbers in 200 hours at the International Amphitheater during the two weeks of the 1952 conventions. This year he'll play for the Democrats in Chicago, then fly to San Francisco for the G.O.P. meeting.

"I'm impartial," he said. "I play just as loud for the Democrats as I do for the Republicans."

McMains has contributed some bits to political history. In 1952 while the powers-that-be were masterminding strategy in smoke-filled rooms, he broke out with "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes."

Unwittingly, he played "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight" while firemen were dousing a blaze on the amphitheater roof.

And when Senator Margaret Chase Smith finished a speech, he burst forth with "Oh, You Beautiful Doll." The audience roared but all Bill got from the Senator was an icy stare.

Saluting Philippine Independence

View from the presidential grandstand in Manila's Luneta park with multitude assembled to celebrate the tenth anniversary of Philippine independence last Wednesday. Estimates of crowd ranged up to 1,000,000 persons, most of whom were drenched in torrential rain which struck moments after this picture was taken. Principal speaker was Vice President Richard M. Nixon who warned against a policy of friendly neutrality in dealings with Communist imperialism.

GREEK EARTHQUAKE VICTIMS

Survivors huddled amid salvaged possessions at Santorini, on the Greek island of Thera, after earthquake wrecked the cliff-side village Monday. More than 50 persons were killed when quakes struck the Aegean Islands, most of the casualties occurring on Thera, hardest hit island in the group. A United States Sixth Fleet destroyer steamed into Santorini Bay to stand by "in case it is needed," but Greece has declined offers of assistance from this country and Britain.

Tuneful Summer
On the Schedule

By John Crosby

THE seven to eight p.m. (CDT) Tuesday spot on NBC, normally sacred to Milton Berle, Bob Hope and similar stand-up-and-belt-'em comedians, was filled last week by Gisele MacKenzie, a slip of a girl normally found on "The Hit Parade." Miss MacKenzie is a girl of formidable talent who can sing, play the violin and the piano, handle a comedy line, and at least go through the motions of dancing, and it has long been apparent that "The Hit Parade" didn't offer her sufficient scope for all these activities. On the Tuesday night "Chevy Show" she had it!

In my notes on the show, I find the word "cute" six times, the word "coy" once, which would seem to be an awful lot of archness for a single hour. And there was an awful lot. I suppose I ought to explain that the word "cute" has, in my lexicon, several meanings. When applied to Miss MacKenzie's version of a gay French song, "Le Fiere," it means I like it.

WHEN AFFIXED to the opening of a show—as it was in this case—it means I got a little restive and wished they'd get on with the business at hand. Incidentally, the search for cute openings on television is getting to resemble the movies' frantic effort to make boy meet girl in the most unusual ways some years back. Boy used to encounter girl in revolving doors, or under awnings when they took refuge from the rain, or on the observation roof of the Empire State building where she's poised to jump.

But that's nothing to the way the comedians get introduced these days. You may get your first glimpse of a TV star as a shadow against a pool of light, or maybe you'll see the back of his head, or just possibly he'll be upside down. Sometimes they open with a shot of the whole studio—lights, camera and all that stuff—and a guy running through all this shouting, "Mr. Berle! Mr. Berle! We're on in five minutes!" Then there's the "Oh, hello there!" approach. To his overwhelming astonishment, a guy just finds himself staring down the throat of a TV camera after he's only been rehearsing it all afternoon.

In Miss MacKenzie's case, the cute trick consisted of Miss MacKenzie dashing around to the dressing rooms of her guests—Phil Harris, Bobby Van and Cornell Wilde—and telling them she'd have to cut out their specialty numbers because the show was running overtime, thus introducing herself and her guests and consuming a lot of air time.

JUST THE SAME it was a very good musical show. Whoever selected the music had great taste. For one thing he looted "My Fair Lady" of some of its best tunes. Phil Harris sang—or rather recited—"Ordinary Man." He's no Rex Harrison but he did as well as anyone else could have done with a song Harrison has made peculiarly his own. Miss MacKenzie contributed "I Could Have Danced All Night" (which she isn't quite up to) and "On the Street Where You Live."

It was a very pleasant hour, and also it looked as if it didn't cost a fortune to produce. Sometimes ingenuity and personality more than make up for a bankroll. I just wish the writers would take it easy in the cuteness department. Miss MacKenzie is cute enough without trying.

Way back in the Pleistocene or Milton Berle era of television, the comedians had everything their own way. Now it seems to be the singers who are running off with the prizes. Perry Como and Dinah Shore have proved that songs can not only attract an audience but hold on to it with much greater consistency than comedians. So we have the new "Vic Damone Show," Patti Page, Julius La Rosa and Tony Bennett filling Perry Como's spot. Helen O'Connell on "The Russ Morgan Show," and heaven knows how many other singers in store. It will be a tuneful summer.

ON THE "ERNE KOVACS SHOW," a man threw knives at Kovacs. He missed. A cannon was fired at him through a wall. A stunt guy was billed as about to drive through a flaming hoop then crash into a wall—but he couldn't get the car started. There was also a ghostly ballet in a haunted castle in which only half of one ghost—the part from the waist down—looked part. It was real crazy man.

Kovacs's humor is weird, ghoulish and sometimes very funny. In the daytime, when all our critical faculties are reasonably relaxed, I find him a lot of fun. At night, though, where he is now replacing Sid Caesar (NBC-TV 7 p.m., CDT, Mondays), the Kovacs humor seems a little special, a little unfinished, as if they made it all up as they went along. Fair to middling is about the best I can say of his new night-time show—but then it just started and may get better.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

SEVERAL weeks ago I met the wife of my husband's employer at a large tea and cocktail party. She has now invited us to a dinner party at her house, and I would like to know what is the correct procedure. Do I bring a box of candy, write a thank-you note after the dinner, or invite her to dinner at my house to repay my obligation?

You do not take anything and neither do you write a thank-you note. In short, nothing is expected of you, unless she should invite you several times and you become real friends when you would return her hospitality in whatever way you can.

DEAR MRS. POST: A club to which I belong is giving a barbecue shortly. About a month ago I asked a girl who I had gone out with two or three times before to go with me. She accepted. Just recently, however, I met another girl at a party whom I am very keen about and would like to have her go with me instead. Can I possibly ask this second girl to go with me without hurting the feelings of the first? I would very much appreciate hearing from you on this matter.

Answer: Having asked the first, you cannot possibly ask a second. But in the future you can ask the second as often as you please.

DEAR MRS. POST: Next week my mother and I are planning to go to the wedding of my mother's niece. When the usher escorts my mother to her seat, do I follow them alone or do I wait at the back of the church until he comes back for me?

Answer: If there are plenty of ushers, you wait at the back of the church for one of them to take you. Otherwise you walk on the other side of your mother and go up the aisle three abreast.

Surprising Note in Fall Fashions

By Sylvia Stiles

Post-Dispatch Fashion Writer

NEW YORK, July 11. MUCH of the charm of the new fall fashions is due to the unexpected. No one would expect to find a dress with the gathers at the back of the neckline rather than the front, or an expensive evening dress that looks like a glorified slip even to the camisole top and lace flounce. There is the surprising feature, too, of skirts that are buttoned at the hemline, jackets scalloped at the peplum rather than the collar, and coats that wrap the wearer like a cocoon.

Fur muffs as big as rugs, bonnets that scoop so low over the face they hide the eyes, and bouffancy in hair-dos rather than in hemlines, are among the other fashion fancies that distinguish the latest collections of the leading American designers. Illustrated are some of the fall and winter modes on display at the semi-annual national press week of the New York Dress Institute. All of these will be available in St. Louis within the next few weeks.

1. Davidow's slim suit proves that not all of the clothes for fall and winter have extreme accents. The brief jacket with its notched peplum, wider collar that is set low, and below-the-elbow sleeves is typical of a trend for town wear. The fabric is a soft and pepper towed, lightweight and supple. Sally Victor's bloused hat with its satin drapery has an important aspect.

2. Tina Leser's "bandana-back" dress gives a new slant to tailored town costumes. The center back of the blouse is gathered to match the softly gathered shoulders of the long sleeves and to emphasize the fact that turning one's back will be justified this autumn. The fabric is burgundy colored shadow-striped wool. Both color and material rate high in fashion circles. The bonnet, by John-Fredericks, is typical of the enveloping mood of millinery. Lynx muffs by Fredericks show the dramatic tendency of fur accents.

3. For the many occasions when a handsome black silk dress is needed, Paul Farnes suggests this unusual model of silk Barthele. Designed by Benj. Claire, the dress has the appearance of two pieces, consisting of overblouse and skirt. Actually it is a one-piece type. A jutting panel is double-buttoned at the knees to correspond with double-buttoning at the elongated bodice hem. A flat bow ties the keyhole neckline. Lilly Dache designed the draped hat with its festive topknot.

4. Here is the camisole silhouette that takes us back to the pre-flapper era when lace was used lavishly and skirts had a vampish emphasis. Cell Chapman created this sheath of blond colored silk satin combined with matching lace. The lace is embroidered with gold thread and scalloped at neckline and hem. A little jeweled hat by John Fredericks, long, white kid gloves, and one of those big muffs of white fox are typical of the elaborate details of costuming.

5. Many of the fall coats have a wrapped silhouette. Ample in width at the hemline they may be worn loose or clutched to give that new slouched effect to the figure. Shown is one of Originala's handsome coats. It is made of beige colored fleece and adorned with a shawl collar of lynx. The deep pocket flaps are slanted, this slanting line contributing much to the wrapped, slouched effect of the fashionable figure. Lilly Dache designed the high-crowned cloche with its close-fitting brim that is cut like a cuff.

Russia's Cultural Barrage

By Fulton J. Sheen

IN last week's article it was stated that the struggle in the world today is between a philosophy of life which makes economics, security, gain and profit the dominant motive of life, and Communism, or Soviet Socialism, which stresses the primacy of politics or state domination of economic life, press, distribution, art and science because there is only one will, the state will; only one conscience, the state-conscience; only one religion or God, the state-god and its messianic promise of world revolution.

These two colossal giants have been solicited the rest of the world to fall within their respective orbits. Each has its bait, which is dangled before the Eastern peoples to tempt them into the arms of either. The market-principle of the Western world tries to win other people by offering them products of the market, such as food, economic material for reconstruction, and arms as a first line of defense. Granted that there are humanitarian motives in this giving, the important point is that our economic system, which is capable of producing greater surpluses, has surpluses to give and does need distant military bases to protect its existence.

THE SOVIETS use the economic appeal also, and they are beginning to use it more than ever before. But the economic is not primary. The accent is more on the political, but the political is presented as an appeal to "culture," to "solidarity for all people" under the leadership of the Soviets. Hence the constant appeal to the "People's Government" in China and Tibet; hence the penetration by Soviet "culture" and "way of life" into the Western world, and the plea to Westerners to visit the Soviet Union to study culture and progress.

The Soviets give aid but not so much to win military bases as to win over "the people," the "masses," the "community." This accounts for the Soviet attack in China against "capitalists" and "imperialists" in order to win the people to a new "culture" and "way of life."

One wonders if the present tendency to debunk Stalin does not fit in with this cultural emphasis. The term most often used in abusing Stalin is that the "cult of personality" was strong. The shift is from a dictator who incarnated within himself the political primacy or the state-principle to the collective leadership representative of the "people." The world cannot be gained as quickly to Communism by a dictator as it can by "apostles of culture" visiting England, thus proving their solidarity and oneness with all "peoples." Suddenly the United States, which stresses the economic against the Soviet stress on politics, finds itself caught unprepared by the quick shift of the Soviets to the cultural barrage laid down against the Eastern world, which barrage is only a disguise for the state-principle. What is important in Russia today is not the attack on Stalin; it is rather the shift to the cultural as the mask for the political. The political principle of the Soviets under the mask of "culture" works on the masses of the people, not just to feed them, but to revamp their thinking, their education, their family life, their morals, their loyalties and their religion. Security and prosperity are the catchwords of the Western world with its primacy on economics, but "culture" is the slogan of the Soviet drive.

WHAT MAKES IT difficult for us to appreciate this struggle in simple terms is because we take our beliefs from the very civilization in which we live; we are in crisis and we take our philosophy from the crisis, like a drowning man might develop his philosophy from the water which suffocates him. There is not a sufficient number of standards outside of the crisis to decide what is right and what is wrong; when something is going wrong, we can never know it except by something outside of both economics and politics. The doctor who is not sick is a better judge of the patient's illness than the patient himself. The only way we know whether a line is crooked is by relation to something straight. Not even we who write this article would be able to say that neither the economic-principle nor the political-principle will save the world if we did not have some principles outside the world itself. That is why a philosophy and a faith are so important.

WHEN you have a choice of plays, do you sometimes arrive at a quick conclusion that it makes no difference which one you choose? Such a conclusion is seldom correct.

Neither side vulnerable.

Often the advantage of one play over another is hard to see. But it pays to make a good try at diagnosing each situation as it comes up with the thought in mind that your decision WILL make a difference in the final result.

There are problems of this kind peculiar to each of the four positions at the table. In the following series of columns I want to show you a few problems of third-hand—that is, the third player to play to a trick. Even at the first trick, third hand has a few advantages the opening leader did not have. He has had a chance to look at the dummy and also to see two cards which have already been played.

Of course there is one player (declarer) who will play to the trick after him. He must be alert to capitalize on what he can see.

Look at what happened to Mr. Abel in today's deal. Mrs. Keen opened a small trump and he automatically played his queen (third hand high, you know). Mr. Dale won, cashed his ace and king of hearts and ruffed a heart on the board.

He returned to his hand with the ace of clubs and ruffed his last heart. Note that Mr. Abel was powerless to overruff.

Getting along much better than he had expected, Mr. Dale now led a diamond to his king, losing to the ace. A club was returned and he ruffed, picked up the outstanding trumps, cashed the queen of diamonds and made his contract. He had won two hearts, a diamond, a club and no fewer than six trump tricks.

What did Mr. Abel think he would gain by going up with the queen of spades at trick one? Extremely unlikely on the bidding. Did he think she had led from the king doubleton of trumps? Extremely unlikely on ordinary common sense.

If he had played small, he could have overruffed dummy on the fourth lead of hearts and after that Dr. Dale would have found the going much too tough to bring in 10 tricks.

"Like all singers in Hollywood who have to make a living, I sang in studio choruses, once in a while got a job singing for an actor, or a bit part. Most of it ended up on the cutting room floor. About the only thing anyone would be likely to remember would be 'Mourning Becomes Electra' in which I sang the background music, 'Shenandoah.' Of course I realized that if I wanted to do anything in the operatic field or concert work I had to go to New York. So when a musical comedy I'd been in, 'Ballet Ballads,' closed, I went to New York and gave a recital nine days after I'd arrived.

"Later on I realized that I'd been foolish to give a recital with so little preparation. The critics were very kind, however, and I expected I might at least get a manager out of it. Several managers listened but none of them signed me up."

THEN came a depressing eight months in New York with more chances that didn't materialize, a kind of continuous beating of his head against stone wall, and finally his rebellious return to California and the job of rolling drums of oil around.

Even when the opportunity to audition for "Billy Budd" came up, he was cautious about relinquishing his security.

"I flew to New York on a Friday afternoon," he recalls, "and auditioned on Saturday and Sunday. They were pretty sure they wanted me but told me Britten would have to decide. On Sunday night I flew back to the coast, got off the plane Monday morning, my wife met me with my work clothes, and I changed on my way to the plant and was back at the job that morning. A week later I got a telegram telling me to take a plane for London."

"Billy Budd," which he did in this country on TV later, was a success, and so were his subsequent appearances with the Covent Garden Opera Company. In 1953 when he returned to New York he was auditioned by the Metropolitan Auditions and the Gainsborough Foundation award, which gave another boost to his career.

He and his wife moved to Los Angeles at this time because he had some promise of a movie career, but for seven years hope was periodically raised and then deferred.

"I was always running into things which I thought might work out but didn't," he says.

For a Busy Day
Tweed shirtwaist dresses of silk or wool are designed for a woman's busy day. Many are shown with open collars and easy-fitting skirts that are accented with patch pockets and leather trimming. For late day Vera Stewart has designed some casual dresses of silk brocade. These have short sleeves. The skirts have flying back panels. The sheer wool dress in a variety of colors is another versatile type created by this same designer. For daytime wear it is a bloused back sheath caught at the waistline with a leather belt. For late day, the wool dress has a V neckline. Beaded applique is the only trimming.

He and his wife live in Roslyn, Long Island, in a Norwegian—"probably I should say 'Swedish,'" he adds—"ranch house, where they like to work around the garden. They have two children, Margot, 11, and Michael, 9. Uppman intends letting the children develop in any careers they want but notes that both are musical and that his little girl now knows all the operas in which he has appeared.

"My wife used to sing with the Roger Wagner Chorale in Los Angeles when we lived there," he says. "Right now she's limiting her singing to leading our daughter's Girl Scout troop in folk songs."

THEODOR UPPMAN... HIS CAREER "SOMETHING OF A SUCCESS."

By Clarissa Start

THEODOR UPPMAN looks as if he could step right into the role of Curley in "Oklahoma!" but unfortunately they weren't casting "Oklahoma!" not even the fourth or fifth road company, when he went to New York to seek fame and fortune. The young baritone from California gave a recital at Town Hall. The critics were impressed. He sang with a quartet, tried out for every show being cast, knocked on every door. Finally he got into a minor musical show. It closed.

"That was when I decided, 'This is the end,'" Uppman tells the story. "It seemed to me that this life was just too uncertain for a man and wife and children. So I went back to Los Angeles and got a job with Bendix Aviation in Burbank. They made me superintendent of the oil and acid department.

"I was rolling 700-pound barrels of oil around and enjoying it because it entailed work outdoors. I was getting a good tan, working up some muscles and getting a weekly paycheck. I'd been there a month when I got a call to go to London to sing in Benjamin Britten's new opera, 'Billy Budd.' That was the beginning of a career which has become something of a success."

Uppman's career, which he calls "something of a success," has made him one of the most promising young singers in the Metropolitan Opera, and brought him to St. Louis this week to do the role of Johann Strauss Jr. in "The Great Waltz" at the Municipal Opera in Forest Park. Paychecks have been as regular, not to mention more substantial, than those in the aircraft plant, and the work has been far more in keeping with Uppman's earliest ambitions.

A NATIVE of Palo Alto, Calif., Uppman was the only member of his family born in this country. His parents came from Sweden and his older brother and sister were born there. Both parents had sung in choir, brother John sang professionally, and Ingrid, the sister, was musical, so Theodor—Ted to his family—got off to an early start. At eight he was singing German lieder and old Italian songs. In high school he received encouragement on his voice and at age 17 he began studying seriously.

As a special student in the drama and operatic departments, he spent some time at Stanford and the University of Southern California. At the latter, he studied with Carl Ebert, one of the world's foremost stage directors, director of the Glyndebourne Opera in England, the Edinburgh Festival and Berlin State Opera. When Uppman won a scholarship, he went east to the Curtis Institute of Music to continue his studies. This was interrupted by war service in 1943. "I was in the Tank Destroyer Corps and made the landing at Normandy at D Plus 12," he says. "I was about to be sent to the battle of St. Lo, when someone ran across my civilian record by accident. I was auditioned for the first Special Services unit on the Continent. I spent the rest of the war singing to G.I.s. Since I'd been in the reconnaissance division, not even inside a tank but in front of them, this was more to my liking."

After the war, Uppman went back to California and married his childhood sweetheart, Jean Seward, who also had studied singing at Curtis Institute. He picked up his career again with a choice assignment, in "Pelléas and Melisande" with Maggie Teyte and the San Francisco Symphony Orchestra. In 1947 he won the Atwater Kent Auditions and the Gainsborough Foundation award, which gave another boost to his career.

He and his wife moved to Los Angeles at this time because he had some promise of a movie career, but for seven years hope was periodically raised and then deferred.

"I was always running into things which I thought might work out but didn't," he says.

Secrets of Charm Wearing Sun Glasses

NEVER READ IN THE SUN, ALWAYS PROTECT YOUR EYES WITH DARK GLASSES.

WEARING dark glasses indoors may make you look like a celebrity, but it is a foolish practice. It is not good for your eyes.

Doctors tell us that the one time not to wear sunglasses is indoors. Only a phony who is trying to impersonate a movie star or someone not interested in her precious eyesight will leave only her sunglasses in a restaurant, store or hotel lobby.

THERE ARE many times when it is imperative to wear dark glasses. Your eyes need protection when you are in the sun. Strong sunlight strains and tires your eyes. If you are subjected to it any length of time without glasses, headache, fatigue and a temporary impairment of night vision are in store for you. Those who don't wear sunglasses squint in the sun, and this causes wrinkles.

When you are sunbathing on the beach or on the terrace when your face is tipped directly toward the sun's rays, shield your eyes with plastic eye covers. These fit just over the eyelids so you won't have those owl-like white circles of untanned skin which so often occur when you wear sunglasses when tanning. They protect your eyes from the glare and the lids from burning.

AS AN extra precaution for beauty's sake, put eye cream or oil on the sensitive skin around the eyes. And, above all, when you shop for sunglasses, select a pair combining glamour and comfort and having a becoming frame and clear, prescription lenses.

A free pamphlet, "Glasses That Adorn," will help you on selecting the right frame for the contour of your face. Just send a stamped self-addressed envelope to the Post-Dispatch.

My Day Two Young Visitors at The U.N.

By Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK.
BACK to New York I went Monday morning, starting very early with two young ladies of 10, my godchild and my grandchild.

We reached New York around 10 o'clock and, after the children got settled, they went to visit the zoo in the park and then came down to my office at the American Association for the United Nations, from where my secretary there took them on a guided tour of the U.N. Then they joined me at luncheon in the delegates' dining room.

After lunch we went shopping in the U.N. shop, buying flags and various other small gifts for members of their families. We continued on to a book shop and then to a toy shop, and finally home just as the afternoon storm broke.

I LEFT the young ladies at home and went to see the first of the four movies scheduled for the Selznick awards. This was a British production and a very fine one. But I found the subject heartbreaking, though no more so than the reality on which it is based.

I remember being in Germany at the end of the war and going over some of the records of the International Refugee Organization in connection with the lost children from countries all over Europe.

Children were searching for their parents and parents were searching for their children. Many of whom had been deliberately taken out of their countries of origin. This was done on Hitler's theory that the way to prevent all future opposition to his domination was to move an entire generation into Germany, indoctrinate it there and bring it up as Germans.

MANY FAMILIES who later adopted these children had no idea they were not German. The real tragedy came when a slow search of records finally disclosed an origin of some kind and the of final records could claim, a child that sometimes had been so completely alienated from his background that he did not even recognize his native language.

It is safe to say that, in some cases, parents in Germany knew these children were not Germans and took them more or less as working slaves, but this apparently was rather rare. For the most part, many parents, taking the children out of orphanages, had no idea that they were not German orphans and really loved them as their own.

It was not just hunger and cold, being driven from their homes and losing their parents that were cruel, but just as cruel was the fact that they had to change their allegiance twice in the short span, sometimes of a 10-year-old's life.

Movies which deal with such real problems of war are, I think, a good reminder to all of us of the ramifications which, even before the invention of the atom bomb, touched the lives of the innocent as well as the guilty. War was not confined to soldiers, even as far back as World War I.

"You understand," Mr. Kerr writes in Variety, "I'm not trying to pick on the oldsters, just trying to explain why today's men may be as much fun as Percy Hammond or Alexander Woolcott."

The lack of fun and fire in current reviews is unhappily true. Hammond, Woolcott, Brown and their sharp-shooting allies gave the theater essential fervor and vigor. . . . Woolcott's ferocity earned him the reputation as "the most-insulting and insulted man on Broadway." Alec was one of the flamboyant personalities who engaged in his own private theatricals. The consequence was controversy and a torrent of quips involving Woolcott. Once, when he was dieting, one target of his criticism informed another victim: "I see where Woolcott has dropped 100 pounds."

The other blandly inquired: "On whom?"

Wives Who Work

By Dr. Paul Popenoe

A HOME and a career—millions of wives have them both. Joyce is therefore a bit late when she writes me, "I expect to be married in the fall. I suppose I am what you would call a career woman, 29 years old, and with an excellent semi-professional job I am determined not to give up. The man I plan to marry understands my feeling and agrees to it, but many of my friends are sounding the alarm. They say I want to eat my cake and have it too. They say my husband will become tired of a working wife. Do you think a woman can really have a successful home and a successful career?"

There are now more married women in the labor force than there are single women, Joyce. Look around and you will see many happy homes, also some unhappy ones. Your friends are justified in warning you of at least a possibility of trouble ahead.

AND, BY THE WAY, you don't mention children. If you plan to forego maternity in favor of your career, it is probable that both you and your husband will some day be very much dissatisfied. Apart from that, here are five important points that you should bear in mind:

1. You'll have to reduce home responsibilities to a minimum. I have seen too many women work hard all the week and then get up at 5 o'clock Sunday morning to spend the day doing the family washing and ironing. Don't try to keep up a large place. Get many of your meals out. Have help in the home for cleaning.
2. Don't let your husband feel that he takes second place. Remember that he is marrying you (I assume) to get a wife, not merely to get a roommate—or a competitor. You have no right to marry unless you are willing to pay the price.
3. WHEN YOU ARE in public with him, learn to bring him to the front—tactfully. If he gradually comes to feel that he is merely Joyce's husband, he won't be happy. It may take a good deal of planning and management on your part to treat him fairly in this respect.
4. Similarly, if you have some of your business associates as guests, have some of his at the same time. Keep the affair on a social level, not on a professional level. If he is merely an outsider while you talk shop with your own associates, he can't be expected to be comfortable.
5. Talk things out freely and frankly with him. Try to foresee difficulties and deal with them in advance. This is particularly important in the matter of a budget.

Try and Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

THE editor of a small town paper in Illinois must have had a grudge to settle with his local doctor when he printed this item in his paper (I can't believe it was just a typographical error): "Our trusted doctor arrived as soon as humanly possible after the crash, but as soon as he checked the victim's pulse he declared he could do nothing for her."

JERRY D. LEWIS, author of a tip-top collection of poker stories called "Dealer's Choice," says that Hoyle "whose name has become a part of our language as a synonym for the Supreme Court of Poker never wrote any book of poker rules; he never played or even heard of the game!" Hoyle, it seems, wrote a very successful book on whist, so when the publishers decided to bring out a poker rule manual, they merely appropriated the Hoyle name.

OBSERVED DON McNEIL to an appreciative audience at his TV Breakfast Club show. "It used to take an uncommonly strong man to tear a telephone book in half. Now that feat is easily—and frequently—accomplished by the average father of a teen-age daughter."

He will be joined there early next month by his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Palmer, and his granddaughter, Miss Lucie Palmer, who live at the Lindell boulevard address. The Palmers are currently engaged in marine studies and research in the Caribbean. Mr. Palmer, diver and lecturer, is making motion pictures of ocean life while Mrs. Palmer, also a lecturer, is painting undersea vistas. They were accompanied on the trip by their daughter.

Mrs. Marion Clifford Blossom, 26 Daniel road, Ladue, is at her summer home in Cotuit, Mass. She and Mrs. Charles H. Morrill, 41 Portland place, will spend next month at a resort near Murray Bay, Quebec. On their way to Canada they will spend a short time with Mrs. Blossom's son, Howard C. Blossom, who is passing the summer cruising on the Great Lakes on his boat, The Phantom. Mrs. Blossom's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. D. Bradford Blossom, 9685 Litzinger road, Ladue, with Mrs. Bradford Blossom's children, Miss Sally and Jackson Waterbury, will spend the month of August at the Cotuit cottage. Mrs. Morrill's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brookings Smith, 5 Picardy lane, and their daughters, Susie and Sally, are at their cottage on Nantucket off the Massachusetts coast.

Members of the Bixby and Stevens families are summering at their homes at Bolton Landing on Lake George, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Ralph F. Bixby, 8930 Ladue road, departed recently for their cottage there. During their absence from St. Louis their Ladue road home is being occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Losse and the Losse's daughters, Carol Susan and Joan, who returned a few days ago from a six-week vacation in Miami, Fla. Mr. and Mrs. Losse recently sold their home at 13 Conway lane, Ladue.

Mr. and Mrs. Ir A. Stevens, 2 High Downs, Ladue, have been at their Bolton Landing cottage since late last month. Their son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. Alexander McNair Bakewell, and Jane, Sarah and Claire, three of the Bakewells' five children, will leave here late this month for their cottage which they will share with Mrs. Bakewell's sister, Mrs. Gordon McAleer of Southport, Conn., and her four children. They will be joined by another daughter, Gwen Bakewell, who is at present visiting friends on Cape Cod. Mr. McAleer will make weekend visits to the cottage.

To Spend August at Maine Resort.

MRS. D. ELLIOTT O'REILLY, 7250 Westmoreland drive, University City, and her children, Elliott Jr., Lucia, Marian and Ann, will go to Biddleford Pool, Me., to spend next month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hopkins King, at the Kings' cottage. Christopher's Pasture. Dr. O'Reilly expects to join his family for a late summer holiday. Also at the cottage is Mrs. Clarence Hopkins King Jr., of Atlanta, Ga. ## Director's Mode, '56

Many high-waisted dresses that have the waist sweeping downward at the back are 1956 versions of the Director's mode.
Lace and taffeta are used for many of these dresses. Skirts usually are slim although the back-swept silhouette is noteworthy. The lace is arranged over a taffeta foundation, and the sash also is of the crisp material.

Full-Skirted Dresses

California designers have included some full-skirted dresses for late-day and evening in their new collections. One dress designed by Jeanette Alexander has a very full "walled" skirt.
The wall is formed by irregular tiers that are gathered and intricately flounced. Fitted bodice that is sleeveless and low at the neckline adds a very large and wide bow to suggest a tiny cape.

Fabulous Formula Diet

Developed by the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research

A reducing diet... a complete food mixture, nourishing and tasty... easy to prepare and use.
Ideal for part-time dieters... serious dieters.

★ You make this diet formula with Mazola...
the only leading oil made entirely from golden corn

★ And delicious
Karo Syrup,
readily available in all grocery stores, may be used instead of dextrose

Here it is! The Complete FABULOUS FORMULA DIET

A typical day's reducing diet—20 ounces, approximately 900 calories.

Dextrose (3 tablespoons of Karo Syrup may be used... see below) 6 level tablespoons
Evaporated Milk 10 ounces
Corn Oil (Mazola® Oil) 1 ounce (2 tablespoons)
Water 8 ounces

Combine milk and water, stir in dextrose until it is dissolved. Then add corn oil and beat (or blend in an electric mixer) until the oil is thoroughly mixed with other ingredients. The formula can be stored in the refrigerator, in any clean, quart-sized jar. As a rule, the formula should be made daily and stored like fresh milk. If the mixture is well homogenized, it is possible to make up a week's supply and store it in a freezer.

About Karo Syrup: It is a mixture of dextrose, maltose and dextrins. Medical authorities state that 3 tablespoons of Karo Syrup have the same caloric value as dextrose in this formula diet. Any one of the three kinds of Karo Syrup may be used.

Mazola Oil is the only leading vegetable oil completely made from golden corn. It was the oil specifically used in the formula diet tests.

Read And Remember Before You Begin!

- Important! The formula tastes best when it is thoroughly mixed (until there is foam on top) and thoroughly chilled. If you are planning it for breakfast, prepare the formula the night before and store it (as well as the glass you will drink it from) in the refrigerator. Because the oil will separate, it is necessary to reshape it, vigorously, just before you drink it. If you plan to drink it as soon as you prepare it, shake up the formula with a few ice cubes. If you are traveling with your formula, put it in a vacuum bottle; or in a jar or cardboard container, add ice cubes, and insulate by wrapping the container with a turkish towel or with newspapers.
- The formula tastes delicious when non-caloric flavoring is added. Make up the formula in the amounts given above and add 2 teaspoons (per 20 ounces) of any one of the following: instant coffee, vanilla extract (with 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg), imitation maple flavor, pure extract of peppermint. Formula-diet patients at Rockefeller Institute Hospital found the bland taste of the formula, without any flavoring, preferable for long diet periods.
- When the formula makes up one half or more of your daily diet, you need to supplement it with a daily multiple-vitamin mixture containing all essential fat and water-soluble vitamins. Ask your doctor to select a brand for you, from the many reputable brands available.
- The formula has been tested with obese people who are otherwise in good health. As with any reducing diet, it is important that you check first with your doctor and have his approval before you begin.
- The formula has not been tested as a reducing diet for children, or as a method of feeding in pregnancy or in instances of impaired health where larger amounts of protein would be indicated. Any diet, in these special situations, should be evaluated on an individual basis by a doctor.
- Depending upon individual dietary needs more or less formula (minimum 600 calories) can be used each day. For instance, a large, exceptionally active or athletic person may require more than 900 calories each day, whereas a 900-calorie-a-day reducer may find, as time goes by, she needs less formula in order to continue her weight loss. If you alter the amounts of the formula listed above, be sure the proportions of the ingredients remain the same.

For Part-time Dieters

● No serious weight problem? Splendid—the fabulous formula is for you! After a week-end away from home with too many party menus, try the formula on Monday to make you feel normal again. Or—other way 'round—slim down a bit on a week-end, the formula way. Or try this delicious, satisfying formula for one meal a day—lunch or dinner... plus light sensible menus at other meals.

A QUESTION about the Big Dipper has come from Kay Williamson. She asks: "Why does the Big Dipper point to the North Star?" Only two stars of the Big Dipper point out the North Star. They are known as pointers.

The pointer stars make up the outer edge of the cup part of the Big Dipper. Run your eye from the lower star to the upper one, and then extend your line to the first bright star, which will be the North Star. It is, or at least seems to be, about five times as far from the upper pointer star as that star is from the one below.

A person who observes the North Star for the first time often feels disappointed. One woman asked me, "Why isn't the North Star brighter?" The North Star (also called the Pole Star) is only a happy accident. Since it exists, we have a guide in telling directions on any clear night.

In the same way it is accidental that two stars in the Big Dipper point to the North Star. The Big Dipper swings around

THIS DIAGRAM GIVES AN IDEA OF THE BIG DIPPER AS PART OF THE GREAT BEAR GROUP OF STARS.

The North Star, but always is in sight in the northern half of the globe on a clear night.

The sun is now classed as a true star, and it is at the center of our solar system. Putting the same thought in a different way, the true stars are far-away suns.

Satellites are objects which revolve around planets. The earth has one satellite—the moon. All of the main planets in our solar system except three have one or more moons. The three without moons are Mercury, Venus and Pluto.
